ATLANTA'S BLACKOUT REHEARSAL DECLARED 98 PER CENT PERFECT

Martha Berry, Famed Georgia Educator, Dies

Miss Martha Berry, who "lit a beacon to shine for all the poor people of the southern highlands forever," died early this morning.

Death came to the gracious lady of the mountains shortly after midnight, her family near as the final chapter of a life devoted to those who lived on the hillsides and in the valleys was written.

Widely Honored.
The little gray lady who has been called "one of the greatest women who ever lived in any land, in any time," was known and honored throughout the world for her life's work—the creation of the great Berry Schools at Rome for the boys and girls of the southern mountains.

Great men honored her and humble men paid her tribute, and in their words are found the lines that best may serve as her epitaph. To her Calvin Coolidge said as he bestowed upon her the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Association medal for distinguished service: "Because of you thousands have been released from the bondage of ignorance and countless other thousands in the generations to come will walk not in darkness, but in light."

Her Life Aim.
Countless honors were hers as she pursued for more than 40 years her aim "to free the children of the mountain forests—to give them to America strong of heart, of mind, of soul."

How well she wrought the great school she built bears witness. It began as a little log cabin. Its 100 buildings sit today amid 25,000 acres of rich farm and pasture and rolling woodland, where each year 1,200 mountain boys and girls work as they learn.

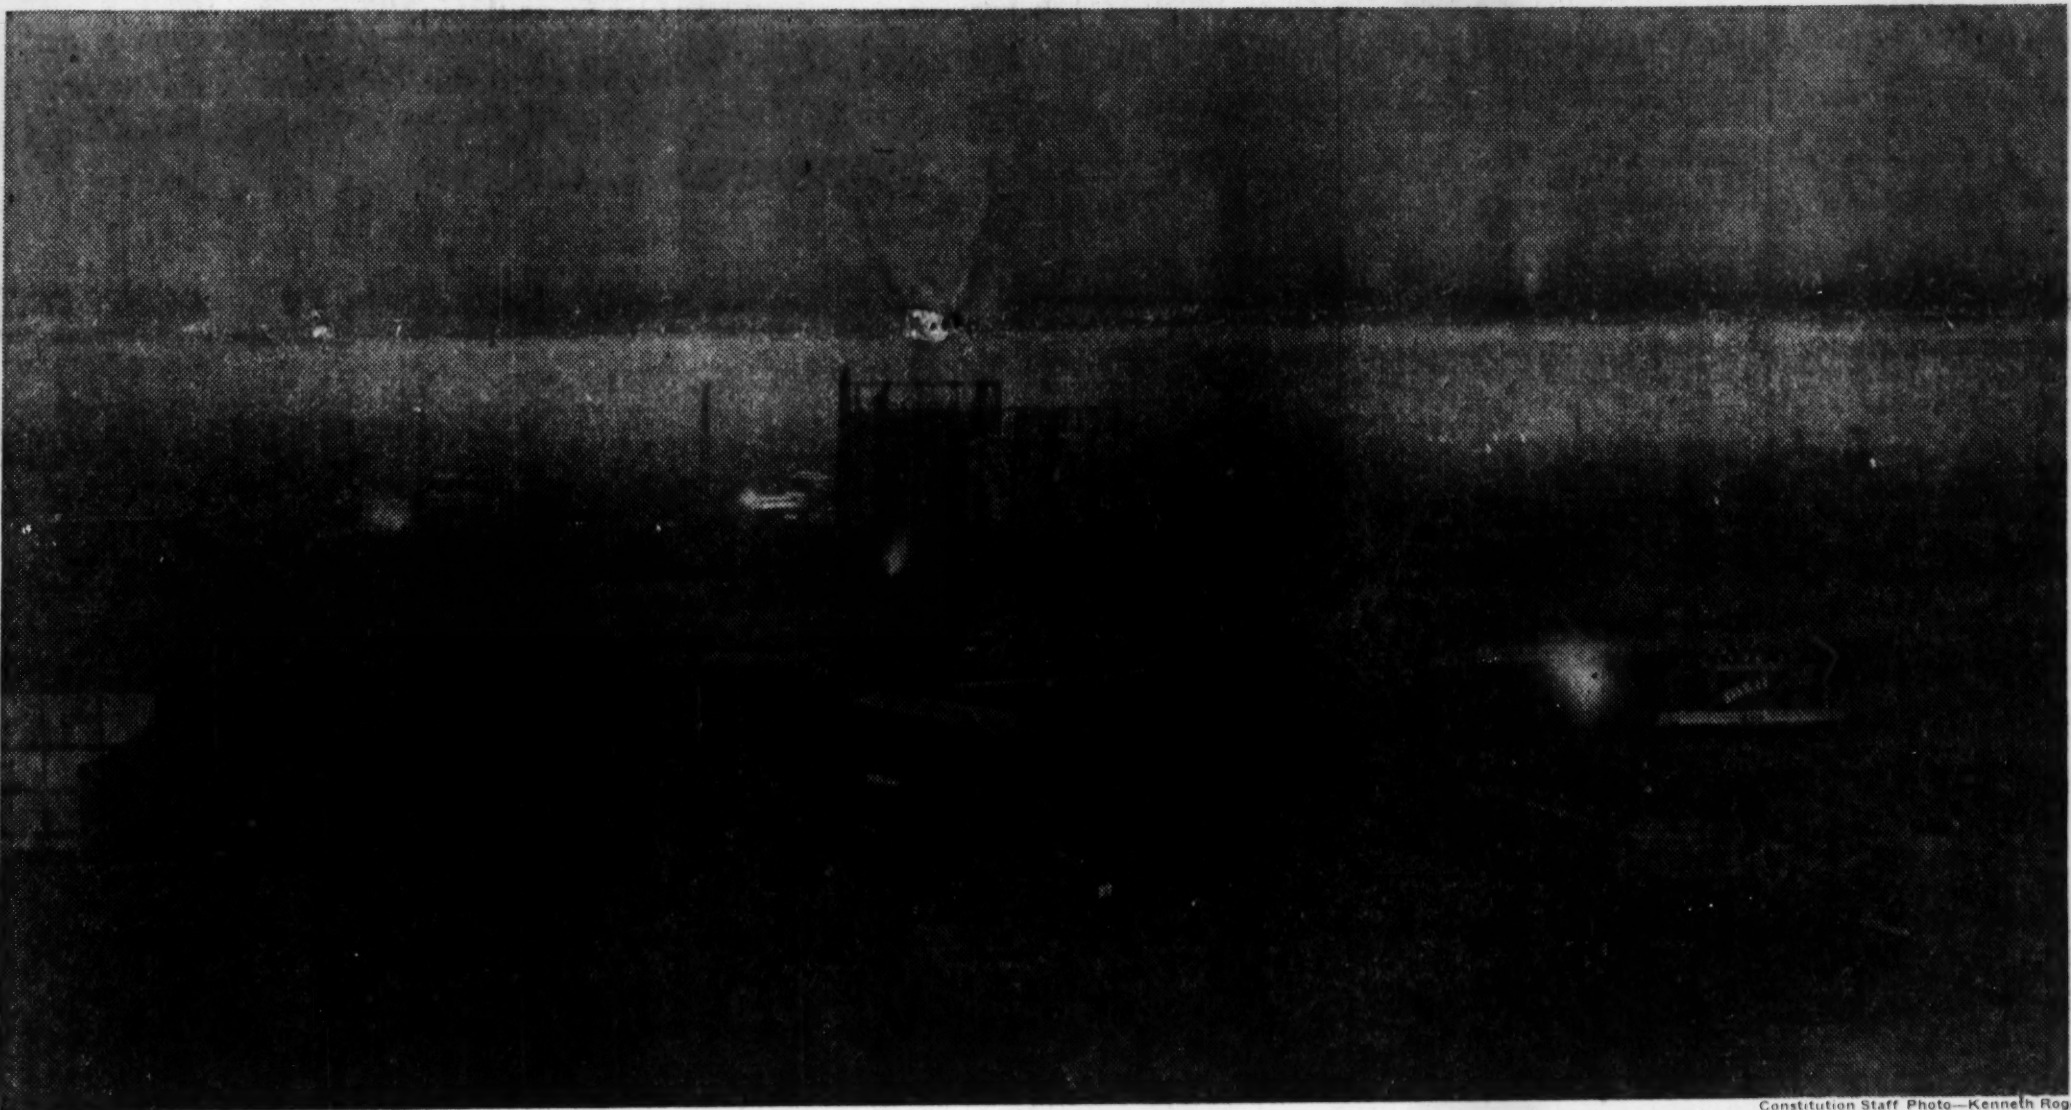

Those whom she taught at first are men and women now. Ministers, teachers, nurses, doctors, lawyers, farmers and engineers, fine craftsmen in a hundred skills their fathers never had, they have gone back to their hills to break with their hammer of knowledge the chains of poverty and despair their people have worn for two hundred years.

Enduring Beacon.
What her life meant to them no words can fully tell, but in the simple speech of Gordon Keown,

THIS IS A VIEW OF ATLANTA LOOKING NORTH FROM ALABAMA STREET DURING THE BLACKOUT TEST—DECLARED 98 PER CENT PERFECT.

Practice Alert Results Lauded By Commander

By LAMAR Q. BALL.
A few minor defects, a few very few—arrests, a few complaints about inability to hear signals, and Atlanta emerged last night from its first practice air raid blackout, justifiably proud of an accomplishment that few cities of the nation have equalled to date.

That conservative, hard-bitten veteran of the Armies, General E. G. Peyton, czar of the Atlanta Civilian Defense Forces, announced the rehearsal—the first the city has staged—as 98 per cent perfect, and General Peyton is not the type to be passing out honors that are not merited.

At 9:10 o'clock, when the first siren shrieked its demand for "lights out," the city was ablaze. Every light that burns in the normal night life of the city was contributing to the brightness of low-scudding clouds and a moon that shone through occasional clear patches of the sky.

Instant Response.
The first siren brought instant response from many lights and from the roofs of downtown buildings, more whistles and sirens could be heard adding to the weird chorus. Lights in office buildings, in manufacturing plants, in railroad stations, the neon signs along the sidewalks, the theater marquees and the millions of other bright points that had been piercing the darkness were flicked off, in groups and singly until an eerie darkness settled on the city. Within three minutes most of the lights were out and within five minutes Atlanta had achieved its goal.

From Atlanta's neighboring communities reports came of the same type of whole-hearted cooperation in this serious business of preparing for the worst in the worst of all possible wars.

Stone Mountain reported its blackout 100 per cent perfect. College Park reported 99.55 per cent perfect. Druid Hills, Decatur, Avondale, Pine Lake and Chamblee reported 100 per cent perfect. Peachtree Hills and Garden Hills, although outside the city limits, joined in a 100 per cent co-operation with the city from which they derive their life.

MacArthur Attacks, Driving Japs Back

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(P)—General Douglas MacArthur's men on Betan peninsula have suddenly taken the offensive, capturing numerous Japanese advance positions, and in one sector forcing the invaders to retreat several kilometers, the War Department reported today.

Far from beaten, the defenders of the Philippines "attacked sharply all along the line." The surprise thrust was apparently successful generally, but particularly so on the right, where the deepest enemy withdrawal took place. Main enemy positions were not penetrated, the communiqué said, but at last reports the fighting was still in progress and local successes continued.

Senate's Farm Bloc Continues Parity Efforts

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(P)—The administration sparred for time today in an effort to thwart a new maneuver by the senate farm bloc to prevent the sale of government-held crop surpluses at less than parity prices.

Senate leaders delayed action until Monday on a $32,762,737,900 military appropriations bill while they attempted to convince Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, that he should not seek to amend the measure to prevent the expenditure of any of its funds for the purchase of commodity surpluses at less than parity.

Japs Threaten Encirclement Of Rangoon

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(P)—The Japanese troops massed along the Sittang river spread upstream today for the final stages of an enveloping smash at Rangoon while Japanese aircraft fighting in vain for control of the sky over the heart of Burma lost 21 planes to the American and British air defenders.

The new disposition of enemy troops along the last natural barrier to Rangoon, 60 to 70 miles above the city, was considered most threatening. Military experts here said it would compel the British and Indian defenders to disperse their already outnumbered and battle-cut battalions now defending the west bank of the Sittang near the river's mouth.

Stork Ignores Alert, Delivers Two Babies

Guided only by a bomber's moon and hastening in advance of the oncoming enemy planes, the stork deposited two little girls in the maternity wards at Grady hospital during the blackout. A child was born in the white ward at 9:17 and a girl in the Negro ward at 9:07.

Just before the blackout twins were born at Crawford Long and a boy at Georgia Baptist. The blackout was a success at all of the big hospitals. Private ambulances brought three emergency cases to Georgia Baptist during the demonstration, but the other hospitals reported no emergencies at all.

Blanket of Snow In Sight for City

Atlanta's blackout may be followed by a blanket of snow, Glen Jefferson, official weather forecaster, said last night.

Daring British Sub Blasts Nazi Cruiser

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The British submarine Trident, nosing deep into enemy waters, has hunted down and crippled a Nazi cruiser believed to be the fugitive Prinz Eugen, while that warship's larger comrades in a February channel escape lie in German docks, knocked out of the war for some time to come, the British government announced today.

These official reports were made to the house of commons and the nation by First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander, and by the admiralty itself. They documented Prime Minister Churchill's recent announcement that the German naval flotilla consisting of the 10,000-ton Prinz Eugen and the 26,500-ton battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau had gained no immediate advantage in their sensational dash from Brest to German North sea bases on February 13, through the Straits of Dover.

Although Alexander, in presenting the naval estimates, made the most comprehensive defense of the Royal Navy and of himself since the Nazi channel dash shocked sea-pride Britons, he did not manage to stem criticism. Led by the old naval hero, Admiral of the Fleet Sir Roger Keyes, critics charged the Navy lacked heavily-armed torpedo aircraft, trained pilots and dynamic direction.

Keyes, in uniform as on the day he delivered his devastating attack on the Chamberlain government for the Navy's failure to force Trondheim harbor in the Norwegian campaign, charged that "war by committee" was stifling Churchill.

Another Conservative, Patrick W. Donner, said it was "difficult to see how Alexander could be absolved from responsibility for sending the Prince of Wales and Repulse to the Far East without adequate air support."

A veteran of Jutland and the Falklands, Rear Admiral T. P. M. Beamish, charged that crews of torpedo planes which attacked the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau in the channel battle were novices who never had made an operational flight before and had been told they were to attack a convoy, not warships.

Alexander's own speech was tempered by warnings that recent Allied shipping losses are severe, that Germany's U-boat fleet is expanding month-by-month on an unprecedented scale, and that raiding attacks may again test the Royal Navy in "the most dangerous period of the shipping crisis."

Lord Chatfield, former first lord of the admiralty, bluntly told the house of lords, moreover, that "the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau will be out sooner or later" and that "the new German battleships are bigger than our own."

For the present, however, it was announced that one of the two Nazi battleships, often classed as battlecruisers, lies in dock at Kiel, the other in the dockyard at Wilhelmshaven, and Alexander announced:

"Reliable reports have been received that both German battlecruisers received heavy damage."

SHE DIES... HER WORK LIVES—Miss Martha Berry, whose name will live forever in the mountains of north Georgia, died this morning in Atlanta.

her first graduate 38 years ago. "She has lit a beacon to shine for all the poor people of the southern highlands forever."

Its light has grown brighter over the years. And now that she has gone, it will not dim.

"The boys will carry on," she once said, simply, when asked what would become of all she had built, after she had gone.

And what would she ask of heaven, after a life of heartaches, disappointments, sleepless nights, misunderstandings, and grinding hard work?

School Her Life. "Only this," she laughed, "that Saint Peter will give me all the cast-off golden crowns and harps, so that I may melt them down into money for the school."

The school was all in life to her. She never married. No one man could have found a place in the heart that beat for all humanity. She never missed marriage or motherhood. She was wedded to her work and her children were all the little ones of the hills.

"The schools," she once said, "are my life, the red clay hills are my home; the wind in the pines is my song, and when I die, a grave beside the chapel shall be my resting place."

Martha Berry was born to wealth and social position on Oak Hill, her father's magnificent home near Rome. She was the daughter of a native Virginian, a gentleman born, who came to Georgia and built a fortune in the years before the war. He fought with valor in the Mexican war to earn the title of captain, and he led a company in the War Between the States with heroism.

Lost His Fortune. The war cost him his fortune, but when it was over, the northern capitalists to whom he had paid his debts when secession came, gladly financed him again and he once more rebuilt a substantial fortune.

It was part of this patrimony that Martha Berry used to start the school whose fame is known throughout the world.

She was a lady, schooled in the petty virtues of the day. She had the smattering education that well-born young ladies received—casual tutoring at home, the beginning of a final polish at an eastern finishing school.

But she never did conform to the pattern of ladyhood. She loved the hills better than small talk. She rode them tirelessly ashoreback, with her father, and alone.

Built Schoolhouses. Because she was a southerner, her father let her come home from the "finishing school" and built for her, at her request, a little log building on the spacious grounds of her home where her tutoring continued.

And here, one warm Sunday afternoon 40 years ago, she looked up from her Bible to see before her three big-eyed mountain boys.

She fell into talk with them. They had been all the way to neighboring Rome, just to "look in shop windows." They had never been to Sunday school. "They had no clothes fitten to wear to Sunday school."

And now, three waifs for whom life held no promise, they were footing it back to their lonely cabin on the slopes of Lavender mountain.

Listen to Story. "May I tell you a Bible story,"

Photographers' flashlight bulbs joined the blackout last night and bright flashes became passe as The Constitution's photographic staff substituted infra-red ray bulbs for the flash.

While the blackout was on, the picture takers snapped their cameras but observed all blackout rules. Instead of the flashing bulbs, the infra-red were used to chronicle the events and happenings. The only time flashing bulbs were used was in places already blacked out so that the flashes could not be seen from the outside.

Kenneth Rogers, photographic chief, and his aides, however, brought in the necessary negatives to give Atlantans a picture of what went on.

asked Martha Berry, and big-eyed, they sat down to listen.

She told them the story of creation, the story of Adam and Eve, and Cain and Abel, and they sat in rapture at her feet until the long shadows fell.

When they had gone, and Martha Berry went back to the great white house on the hill, a dream had possessed her that she never lost until the day she died. She had seen the vision of the schools she would build.

The next Sunday the same three came back with two tiny sisters. The next Sunday they brought their neighbors' children. After that, their parents started coming.

The great lawn of Oak Hill was covered with folk, old and young, their oxen and their mules.

"The Sunday Lady." Martha Berry found a little cabin on nearby Possum Trot road. She started a Sunday school there. She founded other Sunday schools, all through the section. She came to the hill folk "The Sunday Lady of Possum Trot."

But it was not alone the Bible, she knew, that these people needed. They had to learn to read, to write, to develop the latent skills of the section.

She used the strength of their own strength to develop their own strength. They had to learn to read, to write, to develop the latent skills of the section.

Launched at Death. She who gave to the utmost found in the giving strength. Always frail, her last years were successive battles against insupportable illness. She laughed at death, and fought it gallantly.

And now she is gone. No more will her slight figure walk through the Gates of Opportunity, down the Road of Remembrance, to the little House of Dreams her children built for her.

But her spirit lives on in the hearts of those thousands she sent back to their homes in the hills to fulfill her dreams for them, to carry out her admonition to "stand above the throng. Teach your brothers and your sisters. Preach in your country pulpits, develop better farms, make of the old life you knew a new and better one."

Against the advice of her sisters, her friends, the importunate swains who came a-courting, she took all that she had been given in her father's will—the money and the 6,000 acres of land—and founded her school.

One-Man Class. She built the first building, and brought in the first class—five lorn youngsters whom she had almost torn from their parents. Her first graduating class was one man.

"We were prouder of that one boy than a mother when whose hatch from a dozen eggs was just one chicken," she said in after years.

But word of the school spread through the hills. More and more boys began to come. One came leading a pig on a string, bringing a pig of measles that started the epidemic. One brought a team of oxen. Her school was growing, her resources were dwindling fast.

She had to have help. In dead of winter she went to New York. She went to churches and spoke for her school. She called on friends. It was hard to do.

The woman, who later was to stand with high head before the King and Queen of England, found asking for money a bitter task.

Got What She Asked. But she asked and got what she asked for. And through the years she kept on asking. Andrew Carnegie gave her $50,000 if she would raise $50,000 more. She raised it. For every need she found an answer. What had to be done she did.

"She was a small woman, gently bred and unassuming," Tracy Byers, her autobiographer, wrote of her, "but as the idea which was to fire her life with a holy zeal compelled her more and more, her spirit strengthened until presidents of banks, of railroads, even of the United States, all agreed that matters must be arranged as she ordered them."

She had Theodore Roosevelt come to visit and through his great enthusiasm for what she had achieved and what she planned, he put her in touch with other sources of philanthropy.

Grew Rapidly. To the boys' school she added a girls' school. She expanded far more rapidly than her resources would allow. But she had to have work for the hands of her boys to do. It was training for them. It was their way of earning their learning.

Henry Ford built the girls' school. The great philanthropist were kind to her and her gratitude to them was great.

But the most deeply touching gifts were those she received from the poor—from the boys who sent a dollar saying: "It isn't much, but use it as you will."

Formalized education had no part in her schools. She knew nothing of the doctrines of teaching. Common sense dictated that she must teach what her boys and girls needed to know. On that theory, Berry Schools were founded and through the years have continued. How sound it was is evident. The state's system of agricultural and mechanical schools were modeled upon Berry. From Washington, delegations of educators have come to find out how the little smiling woman turned out people so soundly trained that even during the depression her boys and girls had jobs waiting when they graduated.

Deeply Religious. A deeply religious woman, the Christian faith was the foundation stone of her schools. Religious instruction was, and still is, an important part of her curriculum.

U. S. Expects To Buy Stocks Of New Tires

Will Enable Dealers To Release Tied-Up Capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Office of Price Administration announced tonight a plan whereby the government expects to buy up virtually the entire supply of new passenger car tires and tubes and thus enable dealers to get their capital out of stocks tied up by tire rationing.

Dealers who wish to be relieved of carrying passenger tire stocks throughout the period of rationing may sell on part of them back to the original manufacturer or distributor at the cost price, plus 10 per cent to cover carrying expenses.

Manufacturers and mass distributors were ordered to sell the surplus stocks to the government-owned Defense Supplies Corporation, and to turn over to that agency also their own stocks of passenger car tires and tubes.

Defense Supplies Corporation is prepared to receive up to $75,000,000 worth.

"This is expected to minimize the bootlegging of tires," Price Administrator Leon Henderson said in a statement. He added that it would relieve retail and wholesale dealers of the necessity of keeping capital tied up in stock from which few sales are permitted under the rationing program.

Canada Could Send Troops to U. S., King Says

Draftees Wouldn't Be Serving Overseas, He Declares.

OTTAWA, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the house of commons tonight that Canadians trained under compulsory service could be sent to Alaska or the United States to help repel any invasion attempt.

The Prime Minister pointed out that the government pledges not to conscript Canadians for overseas service would not be a technical barrier to sending troops to the continental United States or the Alaska territory adjoining Canada itself.

Mississippi Group Observes Blackout

Atlanta was a sort of guinea pig for a defense group last night from Jackson, Miss.

Five officials interested in civilian defense viewed the trial blackout from points of vantage and said they were impressed with the magnitude of Atlanta's first test and had learned much of value to them in their efforts to protect their own citizens.

Members of the party included J. J. Halbery, city manager; J. H. Martin, director of the city building department; Arthur Landstreet, T. W. Crockett, and Buford Yerger, business men and members of the Jackson civilian defense group.

Peyton Inducts 2 New Volunteers

Brigadier General E. G. Peyton, commander of municipal defense activities, yesterday inducted two new feminine volunteers and put them to work immediately.

Misses Mabel Albrecht and Lassie Barker, telephone operators at the city hall, heard that defense headquarters at the city hall would be open during the first Atlanta blackout last night. They realized if the city switchboard were kept open, service would be facilitated and asked if they could not man the board on their own time and at no expense.

General Peyton signed them up, and headquarters was kept in constant communication with its subordinate stations until the all-clear sounded.

Army Says 'Enemy' Planes May Have Caused Coast Scare

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—An Army report that as many as 15 planes may have been operated by "enemy agents" over the Los Angeles area, where an air raid alarm early yesterday sent antiaircraft guns into action, was made public today by Secretary of War Stimson.

Coming a day after Secretary Knox had told reporters Navy Department information indicated the episode was "a false alarm," the Army report said the unidentified craft might have been commercial planes flown over the area by enemy agents to spread alarm, disclose antiaircraft gun positions and test the effectiveness of blackouts.

No bombs were dropped, there were no casualties among American forces, no planes were shot down, and no American Army or Navy planes were in action, Stimson said.

The secretary announced the report came to him from General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and apparently was based on information relayed by west coast Army officials.

The conclusion that the planes might have been obtained from commercial sources, he said, was based on the varying speeds of the planes and the fact that no bombs were dropped.

"As many as 15 planes may have been involved," said the report, "flying at various speeds, from which is officially reported as being very slow to as much as 200 miles per hour, and at an elevation of from 9,000 to 18,000 feet."

Elements of the 37th Coast Artillery Brigade, composed of anti-aircraft forces, fired 1,430 rounds of ammunition between 3:12 and 4:15 a. m. (PWT), during yesterday's alarm, Stimson said.

The secretary said the only comment he wanted to add to the report was: "Perhaps it is better to be too alert than not alert enough. At any rate, they were alert there."

RUMANIA MOBILIZES.
BERN, Switzerland, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Rumania, whose task in the Axis program for 1942 is chiefly one of supplying Germany with food, is mobilizing all persons between the ages of 12 and 70 for an agricultural program in Bessarabia, the Swiss Telegraph Agency reported today from Bucharest.

Barge Service For Atlanta Is Forecast

Dam at Franklin Would Be Required, Bachman Says.

Barge service from Atlanta to Corpus Christi, Texas, New Orleans, Mobile and up and down the Mississippi and Ohio river valley was pictured yesterday by J. R. Bachman, president of the Atlanta Freight Bureau, who disclosed the bureau has made a study of the project and the business in this area will warrant development of the Chattahoochee river.

"In normal times rice, fuel oil,

FOOD FOR GREECE.
BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Feb. 26.—(AP)—The 1,991-ton Turkish ship Dumlupinar has arrived at Piraeus, Greece, with a cargo of food for Greek hospitals and communal kitchens for the poor, DNB announced today.

salt, grain and automobiles would be brought into Atlanta by this route, while cotton, clay, bauxite, magnesium, granite and marble would be the commodities shipped from the port of Atlanta," Bachman said yesterday.

"There's a natural basin in the Chattahoochee valley beginning at Franklin, Ga., near Newnan, and extending to the power dam near Roswell. With a dam and lock at Franklin, this basin would be filled, would flood Peachtree creek, and would enable barges drawing six feet of water to dock at Vinings, Ga., only a short distance from the Bell bomber plant now under construction."

University System Enrollment Drops

Student enrollment in the 16-unit University System of Georgia totaled 11,341 for the winter quarter, a decrease of 1,560 compared to the same period last year, the State Board of Regents reported yesterday.

Only three units reported increases. They were the University of Georgia School of Medicine at Augusta, North Georgia College at Dahlonega, and the Georgia Normal College for Negroes at Albany.

The Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro, where Dr. Marvin S. Pittman was ousted as president, reported a winter quarter enrollment of only 320 as compared with 479 for the corresponding quarter of 1941.

Activities of Brewers' Group Is Commended

Committee Votes To Change Name at Meeting Here.

Pointing out that beer is one of Georgia's three or four major tax sources and urging brewers and wholesale distributors to preserve this revenue by continuing their "remarkable job" of maintaining beer retailing on a high plane, State Treasurer George B. Hamilton yesterday addressed the second annual meeting of the Brewers and Beer Distributors' Committee of Georgia.

Hamilton's talk was one of the features of a luncheon meeting which saw the organization vote to change its name from the Brewers and Beer Distributors of Georgia to Brewing Industry Foundation—Georgia Committee, effective April 1.

D. S. Hubbs, of Dalton, and Arthur P. Leotis, of Brunswick, both distributors, were named to the executive committee at a meeting yesterday morning. Holdover members are: Representing the brewers—J. P. Armstrong, Atlanta; Frank Fehr, Louisville, Ky.; F. G. Gordon, Atlanta; W. J. Huster, Cincinnati, Ohio; and D. W. McKay, Tampa, Fla. Representing the distributors—Jerry Butt, Albany; Henry I. Fedderwitz, Savannah; and Robert H. Hogg Jr., Atlanta.

Judge John S. Wood, state director of the Georgia committee, in his annual report at the luncheon meeting, told of the committee's activities during the last two years which have resulted in the revocation, by state and local licensing bodies, of 56 retail licenses. He announced 1942 plans which call for intensified work in the vicinity of Army camps in the state, and expanded contacts with retailers, along educational lines.

Other speakers were Bernard Lichtenberg and James R. Nicholson, officials of the Brewing Industry Foundation, who told of the progress of self-regulation throughout the country; D. Hurd Hudson, state director of the Tennessee Brewers and Beer Distributors' Committee, Nashville, who told of the work in that state, and C. K. Liller, of Liller, Neal & Battle, Atlanta advertising agency.

State beer taxes last year produced a total of $1,677,115, all of which went to purchase free textbooks in the public schools of the state.

Emory Student's Dad Jap Prisoner

Chocolates, canned goods, sweets, tobacco, shoes, socks and gloves are needed by Americans now prisoners of war in Japan, according to advices reaching Donald W. Spicer, Emory freshman, who has just learned his father, Major Donald W. Spicer, of the United States Marines, is now in a war prison camp somewhere in Japan.

Major Spicer, whose wife is in Coronado, Cal., has communicated by radio with Mrs. Spicer and told her the prisoners are being accorded the treatment provided under international law, that they have comfortable quarters, are well fed and receive good treatment from the enemy.

He urged members of his family to endeavor to try to ship presents to the war prisoners through the American Red Cross.

Even Salvage Drive Has Its Problems

The salvaging campaign of the Roxboro Garden Club has met with great success. In fact, too much success.

It seems that a recent news story about the campaign brought forth a mass of willing contributors. Calls began to come in from all over the city. Nearly 2,000 of them. Everyone wanted to help if someone would just "pick the salvage up."

That brought up the question—which was most important, the salvage campaign or the rubber tires that would be used in collecting it?

The tires won, the solution being to confine the campaign just to the Buckhead area.

NYA Students Protest Transfer

A meeting was held yesterday afternoon to meet dissatisfaction among the student population at Chapman Springs, shop-training project of the National Youth Administration here, over scheduled transfer of J. K. Rodgers, shop superintendent, to an Augusta NYA post.

Will S. Smith, project director, talked to the 275 students, among whom Rodgers is extremely popular, explaining reasons for the transfer. Smith said a mistaken belief was current that Rodgers' transfer was arranged arbitrarily and that the students objected vociferously.

Decision on their protest will be announced to a committee this morning by Boisfeuillet Jones, state director.

U. S. Demands Prompt End of Defense Strikes

Steel Plant, Shipyard, Woodworking Mills Involved.

By The Associated Press. Government officials, pointing to labor's recent "no strike" pledge, yesterday demanded immediate resumption of work in a Pittsburgh steel plant, a Hoboken, N. J., shipyard and Phoenix, Ariz., wood-working mills where production has been affected by labor disputes.

William H. Davis, chairman of the War Labor Board, declared CIO workers who walked out at the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Company's Hoboken yard were failing in "their plain duty to their country in its present hour of peril."

The welders quit work Wednesday because, they said, a foreman used abusive language to them.

Work Requested. Dr. John R. Steelman, head of the United States Conciliation Service, addressed requests for continued work to employees of the La Belle works of the Crucible Steel Company, Pittsburgh, and of the Southwestern Sash and Door Company and the Arizona Sash, Door and Glass Company, both of Phoenix.

The La Belle works closed yesterday after pickets from the CIO Steel Workers' Organizing Committee appeared at the gates. A union representative said negotiations on grievances involving about 100 men had been "hanging fire for months" and that some workers left their jobs in protest. The company, he charged, then ordered other workers from the plant. A company spokesman said there was no advance notice of a walkout and that he knew of no grievances.

About 1,000 workers were affected. Not Striking. Officials in Washington said their understanding was that employees of the two Phoenix concerns were not striking, but had refused to pass through picket lines established by an AFL roofers' union which has been on strike for some time against five roofing companies.

At the capital in Washington, a house debate indicated considerable sentiment for suspension for the duration of the war of federal laws calling for a 40-hour week and extra pay for overtime. Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, proposed the suspension and touched off a bitter debate. He declared labor leaders had called strikes for "silly reasons" and Representative McCormack, of Massachusetts, the Democratic leader, accused him of fostering "anti-labor" legislation.

Sidney Hillman, labor director of the War Production Board, entered the dispute by declaring in a statement that enactment of Smith's proposal would hinder production by lowering worker morale.

A vote was put over until today.

Peyton Lauds Five Points, Dixie's Crossroads, Results After Dark as Pitch During Alert

In those far areas, who heard the air raid signal sounded over the radio, joined in individually merely to prepare themselves for the real tests that are to come later throughout the county.

Throughout the city, the few errors were merely accidents. No one last night had checked any malicious attempt to ignore the law or the rules of the trial test.

Officials Jubilant. Everyone in the city did his best to comply with the regulations that had been laid down and Mayor LeCraw and General Peyton were jubilant about the whole business when the all-clear signals were sounded at 9:35 o'clock, after 25 minutes of darkness.

When the first warning signals blasted, street cars stopped dead in their tracks, motormen switched off the lights and passengers settled back to viewing the odd scenery comfortably.

Buses pulled over to the curbs with their loads of passengers and switched off all lights. Taxicabs halted, although their meters continued operating unless the passengers stepped out to the sidewalks and dismissed the car.

Lights in the railroad stations were snapped off within five minutes, except in the Terminal station, where a train was in the process of loading and departing on schedule.

As soon as the train moved off, the few lights that had been kept on for the safety of the passengers were switched off and no enemy airplane from the skies could have detected where the throbbing heart of the city's railroad center could be spotted.

Window Smashed. Out in Decatur, a single passenger train sped through the city and furnished the only defect in the darkened scene. Army regulations insist that trains move on schedules during practice blackouts.

Only one report of window-smashing resulted, although many fears had been aroused over the possibility of this effort to discourage the blackout efforts.

Two windows were smashed at the plant of the Oxford Company.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Five Points—one of the busiest intersections in the world—was completely blacked out within two minutes after the alarm. First street lights, then a few lights in the First National Bank building, then advertising signs, including the neon sign atop the Kimball House, went out in rapid succession.

Some delay developed in a row of street lights on the Whitehall street corner, opposite the First National Bank building, but air raid wardens soon had them doused and the blackout for the area was complete.

State defense corps men and civilian defense air raid wardens were heartened by the co-operation received from the public. There were no "smart ales" or "playboys" running around loose, on foot or in automobiles.

Persons on the streets took to cover at once, needing no aid from air raid wardens. Meanwhile, the armed men of the defense corps walked up and down in front of their posts.

With downtown hotels blacked out, it was hard to realize that thousands of persons were in rooms in the big buildings. From the street, observers could not detect a ray of telltale light from any hotel room or lobby.

A thing of dismay to air raid wardens downtown was the traffic light at the intersection of Peachtree and Baker streets. This light, for some reason, was not blacked out, but continued to change from red to yellow to green and back again all during the test. It stuck out of the blackness like the proverbial sore thumb.

Four soldiers from Fort Mc- at 638 Lee street, S. W. D. T. Barge, a foot patrolman, reported lights had been left burning on an upper floor of the building. Barge stepped down the street to summon help to enable him to get inside the building and when he returned, he found the two windows smashed and the lights out.

Some Lights Show. Charges of violating the blackout were docketed against Arthur Roy Mincey, of 8 Lovelace avenue, after Mincey allegedly left his automobile with headlights burning. Mincey, police say, parked his car on North Forsyth, near Luckie. A warden turned off the lights and police docketed the charges when Mincey returned after the blackout.

Several reports were made by air raid wardens of lights having been left burning in houses where families were not at home and police will handle these matters directly with the violators.

Mike Kassereh, 43, found wandering about the street and unable to give an account of himself, was arrested by Patrolmen W. D. Anderson and E. L. Sikes.

One police alarm was sounded during the blackout, but this was revealed as a false alarm on an ADT callbox.

None of the hospitals received accident calls. Pedestrians were easily handled by the extra police and the air wardens. The pedestrians crowded into doorways and rested quietly until the all clear was sounded.

Five Planes in Air. Five planes flew over the city during the blackout, testing the city's first performance. In Mayor LeCraw's special plane, supplied by Eastern Air Lines, were LeCraw, General Peyton, Deputy Fire Chief Michael Conway, of New York city, sent to Atlanta for the blackout through co-operation of Mayor LaGuardia; Captain E. J. Swann, regional signal officer, First Interceptor Command, Charleston; Mike Benton, Fulton county air-raid chief warden; Major John Goodwin, state public safety commissioner; Councilman John A. White, vice chairman of the municipal defense council; Councilman Roy Bell, member of the municipal defense council; Stafford W. Graydon, director of civilian defense instruction; Julian LeCraw, son of the mayor; Commander Draper, USNR; John Fulton and Marcus Bartlett, radio announcers; Douglas Thomas, INS; Herman Hancock, Constitution; Tom Ham, Journal. Pilots were Captains G. E. Thomas and L. H. Pabst; steward, Carroll Hyde. From the residential fringes of Pherson were in a drug store at Five Points when the alarm sounded. All but one of their number hurried out when the lights were turned off. He yelled to his pals: "This ain't our show. I'm going to stay right here."

If it had not been for the moonlight, which shone through a veil of clouds, downtown Atlanta would have been as dark as the inside of a hat during the blackout test. The eerie moonlight was all that made anything visible.

How long did the blackout last? In places where electric clocks were going, this became a matter of conjecture after the test. The clocks stopped when the electricity went off in many buildings.

There was no laughing or joking going on between air-raid wardens and armed defense guards. The attitude was grim and serious. The atmosphere was tense and expectant everywhere downtown.

Downtown Atlanta bristled with bayonets, billies and clubs as State Defense Corps men, in uniform, and air-raid wardens, in civilian clothes, walked their beats in preparation for the blackout test. Some air-raid wardens carried white canes, the kind usually used by sightless persons. When the lights went out, the grim guards patrolled with more alertness than ever. No nobody tried any "funny" stunts. Pedestrians and motorists followed orders. No rifle shots punctuated the stillness.

The sirens screaming the "all clear" had almost a joyous sound after the test period as the lights flashed on again—in stores, hotels, theaters, automobiles, buses and street cars. It was a rather "hurrah-for-us" sound, that "all clear" signal.

the city came reports the signals were in effect. From far West End, southeast Atlanta, the residents telephoned complaints that no whistles were heard and in spots where they were heard, they were faint.

"I heard the bells on Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve," said one woman, "but I couldn't hear those air raid whistles."

Complaints came from the region around Patterson and Haas streets in the southeast; from Brookridge drive off Boulevard, in the Orme circle neighborhood; from Tenth and Juniper; from West View drive, where Mrs. Marian Hooker, of 327 Laughton street, S. W., said she was trying to co-operate, but the cries of her newborn baby apparently drowned out the whistles and sirens.

Then there was the problem of scattered traffic lights. The lights were on at Peachtree and Baker streets, Spring and North avenue, West Peachtree and North avenue, West Peachtree and Peachtree, but later reports from the police were that the failure to throw switches on these lights was due to the absence of the wardens on that beat.

Air Beacons Burn. Some excited citizens complained about air beacons they noticed burning, but air raid officials explained that these lights are not disturbed during a practice blackout.

"These lights must be kept on," it was explained, "to insure the safety of the observation planes."

In College Park, a Negro who had sought shelter with a bottle of liquor neglected to turn out the light. Wardens found him in a complete mental blackout with the lights of his home burning brightly.

He woke up in the dark. In Richardson High school, in College Park, lights had been left burning, but a policeman with a passkey corrected this defect within three minutes.

Business was brisk in the city's night clubs. Bands continued playing as the lights were turned off, a few candles lighted and curtains drawn over the windows. The concert of the rhumba music lured most of the patrons to the

Several Lights Burn During First Blackout

Auxiliary Police Report Location of Offenders to Headquarters.

Auxiliary policemen and air-raid wardens last night rushed reports to police headquarters whenever they found lights burning during the blackout.

The lights, their reports revealed, burned in the offices of the Primrose Dry Cleaning Company, 375 Edgewood avenue, a street car switch light at the corner of Irwin and Boulevard; an apartment at 1241 Virginia avenue, N. E.; in the operating room of the Western Union Telegraph Company, wardens reported, blue lights burned throughout the blackout; Herren's restaurant, Luckie and Fairlie streets, a light leaked through the blackout curtain; a light burned in the office of Sam E. Finley Asphalt Company, at North avenue and Plum street; a bright light at the corner of Luckie and Simpson streets; the C. H. Foster Machine Shop, at 282 Pryor street, S. W.; a flashing stop sign at the corner of Harris and Butler streets; a juke box light glowing at the corner of Harris and Hilliard, while two lights burned in the front of the Union Station.

Mayor Conducts Plane Seat Lottery

There was a lottery last night out at Mayor LeCraw's home, and the mayor was the referee.

One seat was vacant on the huge airplane which was to fly over Atlanta during the first blackout, and four of the mayor's sons were demanding the place.

Just to settle the matter, a drawing was proposed. Three of the matches used had no markings, but the fourth did.

Julian LeCraw was the winner. He sat in that seat while his mooning brothers stayed at home and envied him.

floor as the orchestras continued playing in the darkened night spots.

One moving picture show reported that it did about two-thirds of its normal business during the hour in which the blackout was staged, while other picture shows downtown reported business was better than usual.

The movies merely blotted out their marquees, turned off lights inside the house, while the audiences settled down comfortably to view the performances, indifferent to what was going on in the streets outside.

Signals Problem, New Yorker Says

Air-raid signals are one of the most perplexing problems with which defense officials have to deal, Deputy Fire Chief Michael Conway, of New York, told Mayor LeCraw and other city officials last night.

Conway said a standard type of equipment has not yet been gotten upon and experiments are still going on to determine carrying qualities of various types.

"We must have some sort of signal—a standard signal—but as yet we in New York have not settled on one," he said. "We also are having trouble with what are known as dead spots and have to shift those we have from place to place to try to correct defects."

Plane Soaring Over City Affords Dramatic Picture of Blackout

Writer Graphically Describes How Atlanta Vanished in Night

By HERMAN HANCOCK.

Atlanta's first trial blackout was 96 per cent perfect last night as the city doused its lights "miles at a time" when alerts were sounded, leaving no visible target for enemy bombers.

Riding the skies in an Eastern Air Line plane, General E. G. Peyton, commander of Civilian Defense activities, said the city responded with such enthusiasm and co-operation that he and his more than 20,000 aides regarded the success as a "vote of confidence."

The General was joined in his estimates by Mayor LeCraw and Captain E. J. Swann, regional signal officer of the first inter-regional command at Charleston, S. C., who came to Atlanta to witness the event, and who said it was "almost perfect," a "splendid exhibition of co-operation of citizens, the defense organization and of business and industry."

Survey City.

Seventeen defense officials, radio men and newsmen, rode the plane to survey Atlanta and its immediate area, and although outlying sections of Fulton county were not supposed to point it, Mike Benton, Fulton county's chief air raid warden, said the county "staged a spontaneous blackout that was so effective that no lighted lanes led into the heart of the city." He estimated that the county itself was more than 50 per cent effective.

Decatur and College Park, which officially joined the blackout effort, were as effective as Atlanta, he said, and outlying areas in DeKalb county showed they, too, could co-operate and thousands of lights in that section were darkened when the alarm sounded.

The plane took the air at 8:50 o'clock and started its trip over the city and Fulton and DeKalb counties. At 9 o'clock the radio program began with millions of lights twinkling and with important city streets marked by ribbons of light and with the downtown area flooded with white-ways, signs and other illuminations.

Alert Sounded.

When the alert was sounded, large areas vanished as switchboards were pulled, and as blackouts were drawn. The heart of the city went black within a few seconds' time, and the black void spread rapidly.

Atlanta virtually vanished from the face of the earth while the big plane soared over it, and stayed that way until the all clear sounded.

Then the millions of lights began to flicker on. The town looked like a giant rousing itself from sleep, or like a huge Christmas tree as colored signs began to work again, and whiteways marked the important streets. Homes awoke. There were lights again.

Captain Swann said the fact that Atlanta was blacked out and some of the outlying districts are not meant one thing—the need for a unified command to control outlying lights. He also advised the public to "keep cool, don't lose your head, if ever we have to use the blackout."

Cars Stopped.

Major John Goodwin, state safety commissioner, said all cars approaching Atlanta during the blackout were stopped at the city limits. He said his department will co-operate with Atlanta or any other cities in their defense efforts.

Mayor LeCraw approved the unified plan, and added there must be complete liaison between all defense units. He added if Atlanta blacks out and all roads leading into the big city are left lighted, Atlanta will be just as marked for bombing as if all its own lights were burning.

"The lights on roads leading into the city would point at Atlanta's heart," he said.

The plane traveled the quadrants of the city, and passengers could observe all sections and far out into the counties. Because of the drone of the twin plane engines, passengers could not hear the alert or the all clear, but the lights gave dramatic evidence of what was happening below.

Soviets Trap 96,000 Nazis, Moscow Says

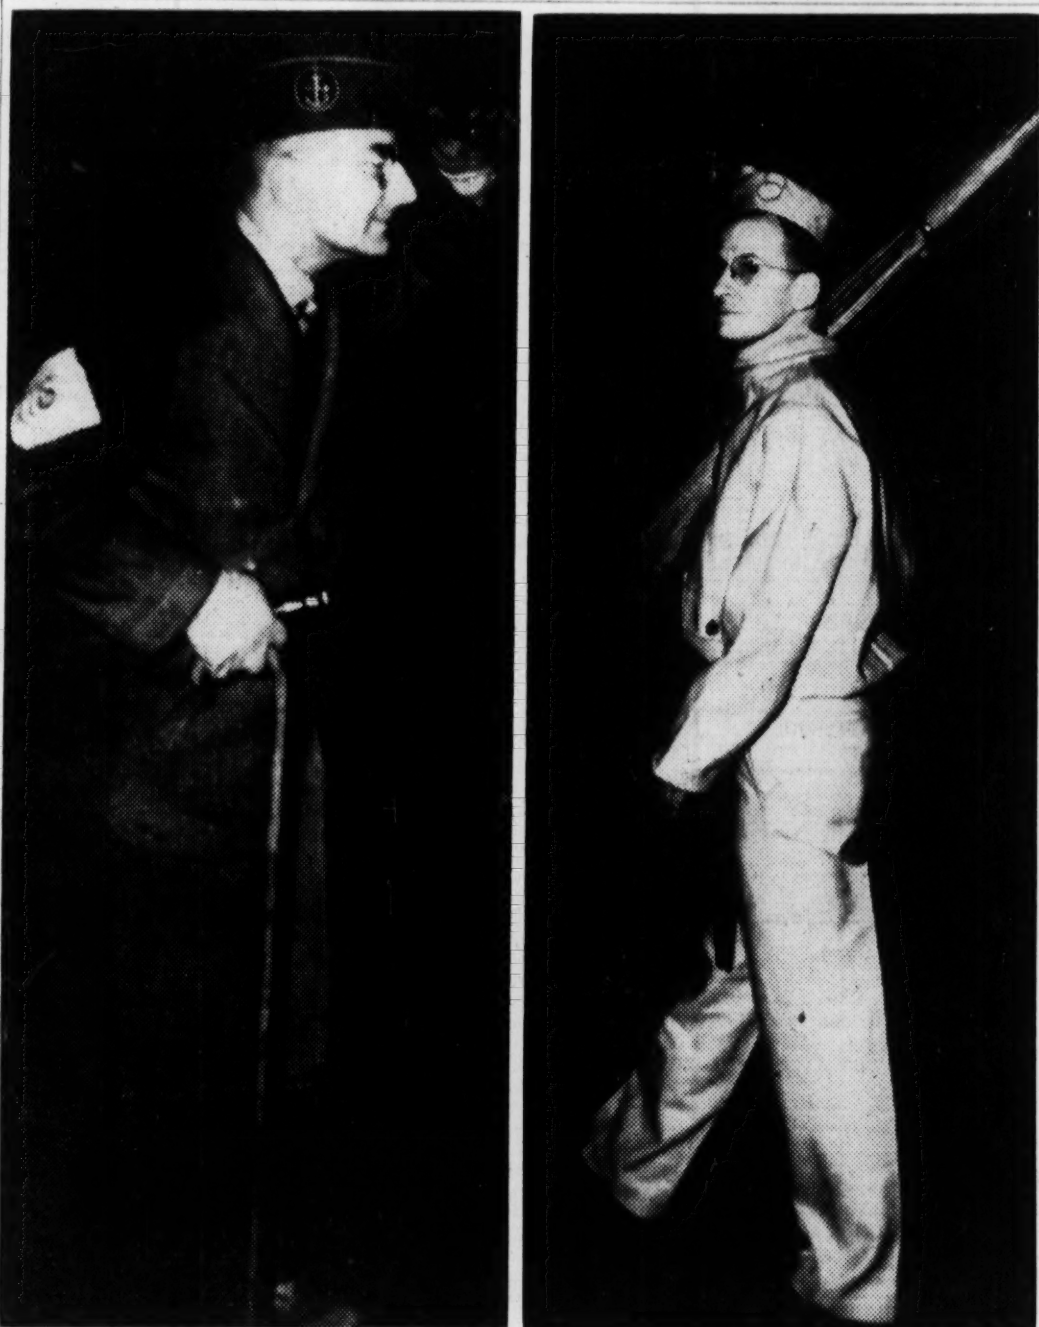

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—Soviet forces in the strategic Staraya Russa area 150 miles south of Leningrad have closed a giant trap on 96,000 men of the Second German Army Corps under General Brockdorf, triumphantly worded dispatches from the bitter cold front said tonight.

The trapped forces were being pounded relentlessly in a furious battle, now two weeks old, for control of a vital area at the heart of a triangle formed by Moscow, Leningrad and the Latvian border.

The regular midnight communiqué reported merely that the Red army "advanced against heavy enemy resistance and occupied several populated places" during the day, but a supplement said that three enemy infantry battalions had been annihilated in a night battle on the western front where an important locality was recaptured.

The Soviets said they had a 21-to-5 plane score over the Germans during yesterday's aerial combats. On the Staraya Russa front Red artillerymen were reported pounding the encircled Nazis with a heavy curtain of fire, sometimes at ranges of only a quarter of a mile.

The German forces were declared to be disintegrating under the onslaught, the 290th division losing especially heavily, and their position was described as hopeless. Soviet airmen dropped leaflets to the surrounded forces promising them good treatment if they would surrender.

General Brockdorf himself was said to have admitted in an order of the day that the 96,000 men were surrounded, and also that their position was "hopeless."

Admittedly, however, General Pavel Alexeievich Kurochin, the man who led the encirclement, is hourly tightening the ring around the German army, is directing one of the most difficult offensives in recent military history.

The weather is extremely bad. There are blinding snows, icy marshes, and high banks in the wooded lake sector, offering every kind of operational problem for the 42-year-old successor to Marshal Klementi Voroshilov.

Besides the weather, Kurochin is fighting crack units of the German army which, knowing they

Oilcloth Shrouds 'Eternal Light'

Even "The Eternal Light of the Confederacy," which has burned steadily since December 14, 1939, as a monument to Atlanta's War Between the States dead, was shrouded during the city's test blackout.

The historic gas lamp, that was shelled but never destroyed during the siege of Atlanta in 1864, was covered with heavy, black oilcloth a few hours before the alert was sounded.

The lamp post was preserved at Whitehall and Alabama streets as a monument by Atlanta's United Daughters of the Confederacy. During the "Gone With the Wind" festival in 1939 an arrangement was made whereby the lamp is to remain lighted forever.

are encircled, are struggling more desperately than ever.

In the final hours before closing the trap, the Russians inflicted a resounding defeat on reserves thrown into the German lines, dispatches said, and elsewhere in this region further tore apart other surviving units of the smashed 16th German army.

Blackout Aides Work in Dark

General E. G. Peyton's two chief aides, who have worked unceasingly to help build the organization which functioned so efficiently last night during the blackout, had to do all their work in the dark.

Wanting to see the effects of the blackout, Colonel W. P. Storey and Captain Enoch Graf raised the blinds over their city hall office long before the blackout began.

A lone flashlight, with a red bulb, furnished the only illumination in their office as they went about their business, dialing telephones and obtaining reports from commanders in various sections of the city.

His 'Illumination' Lands Him in Jail

An entirely new charge was placed on the police docket last night immediately after the blackout.

An auxiliary policeman, patrolling his beat during the blackout, carrying out instructions of protecting people and property, had the new charge docketed against a man he arrested.

Searchlights Spot Planes Before Alarm

Floodlight Truck Operates Before City Is Blacked Out.

By LUKE GREENE.

Two giant searchlights piercing the sky for "enemy" aircraft was the prelude last night to Atlanta's first blackout.

The Atlanta fire department's floodlight truck manned by Bob Zachry, master mechanic, and Asa Brown, floodlight engineer, took up its station at 8 o'clock on Spring street viaduct near the Terminal station.

A few minutes later three planes of the First Interceptor Command, flying in "V" formation, appeared in the darkness. Quickly Zachry and Brown went into action. The searchlights were swung around, and their 2,000,000 candlepower beams turned on the "enemy" planes.

As the planes darted to and fro across the city the searchlights were kept trained on them. Zachry said the beams of each of the lights were capable of reaching seven and one-half miles.

The long arms of the searchlights sweeping across the starry sky gave the effect of a movie premiere.

Both Zachry and Brown were highly pleased with the effectiveness of the lights in spotting the planes and said they would be of great value to anti-aircraft gunners during an actual raid.

One time when the planes swept directly over the viaduct, Zachry commented:

"You can almost read the numbers on those planes."

Just before time for the blackout signal the searchlights were turned off and the truck taken back to fire department headquarters.

his feet and muttering incoherently, was unable to give his name.

"Charge him with being drunk," the auxiliary policeman said.

"No," replied the station lieutenant, "I'm going to charge him with being illuminated during a blackout."

Two New Films and Stage Show Head Local Theater Programs

Two new films, a stage show and a holdover are on the entertainment bill for Atlantans beginning today. "The Man Who Came to Dinner," with Monte Woolley, plays at the Fox theater; "Dude Ranch Follies," is the title of the Capitol's new stage revue and "Bombay Clipper" plays on the screen; the Paramount holds over "How Green Was My Valley" from the Fox.

Fox

Monte Woolley, Broadway star, who made thousands roar with laughter at the delightful comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," while it was on the stage in New York, comes to the Fox theater today in the screen adaptation of that play. Bette Davis, Ann Sheridan and Jimmy Durante are co-stars.

Woolley plays the same role he portrayed on Broadway, that of Sheridan Whiteside, eccentric lecturer and writer, who has a special knack for delivering insulting stabs with his tongue. Sheridan and Davis vie for the affections of a young newspaper editor. Woolley first takes side with Sheridan in an effort to thwart Bette's romantic pursuits since he hopes to retain Bette as his secretary, but when he learns Bette is really in love with the boy, he packs Ann into a mummy case and sends her to Florida. Many other hilarious situations involving penguins, seals, polar bears, parrots, etc., which are sent to Whiteside as Christmas presents, are unfolded in the comedy. Jimmy Durante plays the role of Whiteside's mad Hollywood friend.

Paramount

Introducing the brilliant child actor, Roddy McDowell, and starring Walter Pidgeon and Maureen O'Hara, Richard Llewellyn's best selling story, "How Green Was My Valley," moves to the Paramount theater today for a holdover engagement. Laid amid the scenes of a Welsh mining village, "How Green Was My Valley," traces the sorrows and gladnesses of a mining family as seen through the eyes of the youngest member of the family. Pidgeon is cast as the preacher whose heart is sought by the daughter of the Morgan family (Maureen O'Hara). Roddy McDowell, young Briton, plays the role of the youngest, who tells the story.

Capitol

"Dude Ranch Follies" is the title of the vaudeville revue to be presented on the Capitol theater stage three days beginning today and, as the title would indicate, the unit is one with a western background. One of the outstanding features of the unit is the cowgirl line, the Ranchero Sweethearts. In addition to the cowgirls and the cowboy band, the show puts in between its novelty numbers several outstanding acts of headline vaudeville. On the screen the theater presents "Bombay Clipper" starring William Gargan, Irene Hervey and Maria Montez, South American beauty who recently made a personal appearance in Atlanta.

Fox Showing Air Film, 'Cavalcade of America'

"Cavalcade of America," a short subject which traces the history of aviation through the experimental stages to the modern day, when aviation plays an important part in war, is presented as a special added attraction on the Fox theater program, beginning today. Theories which the late General Billy Mitchell expounded as to the part flying would play in this war are brought out emphatically. The film shows the daredevils who foiled with the flying machines in the early days and later how planes were adopted for military use.

Waycross Pilot Club

To Buy More Bonds Special to THE CONSTITUTION. WAYCROSS, Ga., Feb. 26.—The Waycross Pilot Club has voted to buy two additional $100 Defense bonds, the action being taken at the February business meeting. Members of the club discussed plans for sending a large delegation to the spring district meeting to be held in Atlanta, March 28-29.

Committee reports were heard, and plans made for the seventh anniversary celebration to be held on March 10, at which time Mrs. Alvin Hill, of Athens, district governor, will be guest of honor.

AUXILIARIES MEET.

ROCHELLE, Ga., Feb. 26.—The auxiliaries of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, held their spring meeting Wednesday at the church in Finleyton.

ATLANTAN MARRIES—Miss Patricia Ann O'Rourke, who in Atlanta was known as Pat Stewart, yesterday became Mrs. Wayne Morris, bride of the former film actor, now an ensign in the Navy. They were married in Hollywood, Cal. The bride formerly attended North Fulton High school and is a sister of Peggy Stewart, movie starlet, who is the wife of Red Barry.

Jury Is Halted In Probe of Evans, Glover

Court Order Blocks Examination of Firm's Records.

In its concluding roundup of alleged evidence of state graft involving Hiram W. Evans and O. G. Glover, both already under indictment for conspiracy, the Fulton county grand jury yesterday was blocked by a court order from examination of documents and records of several associations and companies of contractors. The petition to quash a subpoena duces tecum, issued by Deputy Clerk Charlie Hartsfield at the instance of Solicitor General John A. Boykin, was filed on behalf of Mrs. M. S. Vines, secretary of Evans. A hearing on it before Judge Edgar E. Fomeroy was set by Judge A. L. Etheridge for March 2. By that time the present grand jury will have dissolved and a new one sworn in.

The subpoena required Mrs. Vines to produce before the grand jury at 10 o'clock yesterday morning records of the Co-operative Asphalt Association, the Georgia Highway Improvement Company, the Eastern Construction Company, the Southern Improvement Association, the Southeastern Construction Company and the Modern Asphalt Company, showing their dealings with Hiram W. Evans and any or all members of his family, E. Jack Smith, J. B. Hill and others. Quashing of the subpoena was requested on the grounds that Mrs. Vines had not had 10 days' notice as required by law, that the subpoena is too vague in that it does not allege there is any case or charge against any persons under investigation to which the records would be relevant, and that the subpoena recites that the records are "to be used as evidence by the state against O. G. Glover without stating in what court, if any, such case is pending."

Many House Robberies Reported at Cordele

SANITATION. CORDELE, Ga., Feb. 26.—A series of house robberies in and near Cordele for several weeks are causing much concern for many residents who are taking precautions of putting on extra windows and doors fastenings. In most cases homes have been entered through a door or window but cutting screens or by pushing out panes of glass while occupants slept.

Money seems to be the article sought, as other valuables are not disturbed. The mystery of the house misses his trousers when he starts to dress, and upon investigation the garment is usually found outside the house with nothing missing except the wallet and small change left in the pockets. Varying amounts have been reported lost by the victims, ranging from around $25 to lesser sums.

J. Eugene Cook Is Boomed for Arnall's Office

Dublin Circuit Solicitor General, 36, Considers Entering Race.

J. Eugene Cook, 36-year-old solicitor general of the Dublin circuit, is considering making the race for Georgia attorney general next fall, it was learned here yesterday.

Friends of the attorney are circulating a letter among legislators and other citizens in an effort to find out what support his candidacy would have. In the letter, friends organizing the movement say they feel any definite announcement of Cook's candidacy should be held in abeyance until sentiment has been sampled.

Accompanying the letter is a copy of a resolution adopted by the Dublin Bar Association. This indorses Cook for the attorney generalship and urges him to allow his name to be placed on the ticket.

Before moving to Dublin, Cook served as solicitor and judge of the Wrightsville city court. His present term expires January 1, 1945. He is a trustee of Mercer University.

OLD TAYLOR
that stands for the strictest whiskey standard in the world

THE man whose handwriting appears today on every bottle of Old Taylor is generally known as "the father of bottled in bond whiskey."

It was he who led the crusade to have the strictest whiskey standard in the world written into law—a standard which nothing less than 100 proof straight whiskey can meet.

And since the day this came about, no other kind of whiskey has ever been made in the Old Taylor distillery.

Such whiskey is costlier to make. There's no short-cut to age or excellence. These can be obtained only by art and skill and the passage of time, investment in barrels and bonded warehouses.

But we believe the result is worth its cost to us and to you. For it is the finest bottled in bond whiskey which the late Col. E. H. Taylor Jr. knew how to make—or which we can make today.

Try it and you will see how fine that really means.

Britain Shipped 9,000 Planes, Halifax Says

Cites 'Appalling Risk' to Home Front in Aid to Allies.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Great Britain shipped 9,000 planes and 3,000 tanks abroad in 1941 at "appalling risk" to the safety of the home front, Lord Halifax asserted tonight in answer to accusations that Britain "leaves the fighting to her friends."

Some of that material played a vital part "in the historic defense" of Moscow, the British ambassador said in a speech prepared for delivery to the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

"In 1941, we got 2,000 aircraft from this country but we sent more than 9,000 overseas," he declared. "We imported 200 tanks but we sent abroad 3,000. We have had to take appalling risks with the safety of Great Britain by sending vital war material at critical times to other theaters of war."

Three Million Bayonets.

"I hear it said that Britain sits behind three and a half-million bayonets in her island fortress and leaves the fighting to her friends."

"Two million of those soldiers are home guards whose full-time work is in war industries. The other million and a half have got to defend something like 3,000 miles of coasts and 90,000 square miles inside them."

"Certainly, I do not think that the idea of the British Isles being over-insured is one that would be accepted by any responsible military opinion."

Lord Halifax said 70 per cent of the empire's casualties on land were borne by the islands and "at sea they have been heavier still."

Daylight Raids.

The RAF made daylight raids over western Europe all last summer to draw away from the Russian front as many enemy fighter planes as possible, the ambassador said, adding: "That form of help cost us about half the number of fighter pilots alone that we lost during the whole Battle of Britain in 1940."

Halifax warned against spreading stories likely to endanger Anglo-American co-operation, declaring that "if we want Anglo-American co-operation to succeed, we must refrain from throwing monkey wrenches in the works."

"I saw that an eminent gentleman announced in Washington the other day that the loss of Singapore was entirely due to British negligence and bungling. I wondered to myself what possible good he hopes to do by saying that..."

BEER BLASTED.

CANBERRA, Australia, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Evacuees reaching here from New Guinea today said that in one of the Japanese air attacks on the island the raiders destroyed a transport plane which had just landed with 400 dozen bottles of beer.

"I CAN'T PRAISE POW-O-LIN TOO HIGHLY," DECLARES MR. BROACH, RETIRED PLANTER

Tells Of Welcome Relief From Indigestion, Gassy Bloating, Achy, Tired, Sluggish, Let-Down Feeling. "Pow-o-lin Gave Me The Relief I Hoped For," He States.

Among the thousands of well-known men and women throughout Georgia and the Southland to voluntarily come forward with strong public endorsements for Pow-o-lin, this grateful statement from Mr. J. C. Broach, retired farmer, Macon, is typical of the praise heard on nearly every hand for this purely herbal preparation. Mr. Broach declares:

"My suffering was so distressing I reckon I tried about everything I heard or read of, only to be disappointed. Indigestion, followed everything I ate and I often bloated with gas until I felt I couldn't get my breath. I was almost afraid to eat, and undernourishment made me feel weak and tremble. I believe I had the worst case of constipation I ever heard of, forcing me to take the strongest kind of laxatives that tore through me, often making me feel worse than before taking them. I often lay awake at night wondering what would become of me."

SABU REWARDS CARRIERS—Sabu, the elephant boy in the film by that name, pins a medal on G. L. Dickson, Constitution carrier, who sold the most defense stamps in the campaign sponsored by the newsmen. Awards were made yesterday on the stage of Loew's Grand theater as the climax of a series of appearances during the day by Sabu and his 900-pound elephant.

Sabu Smuggles Baby Elephant Into Newsroom

Building Superintendent's Edict Fails To Keep Pachyderm Out.

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

The building superintendent was pretty emphatic about it.

He said The Constitution building would harbor no elephants. No, sir, he personally would be at the front door to bar the passage of any and all elephants bent on entering this building.

The building superintendent rushed from the newsroom (on the fourth floor) for the elevator to stop the elephant in the street.

As he disappeared Sabu calmly walked in the back door of the newsroom—the elephant lumbering behind him, heading straight for the city desk.

Sabu brought his 900-pound pachyderm, "Lady," up the back way, via the freight elevator.

Dudley Glass, a veteran columnist, who has worked around newspaper offices long enough to have become surprise-proof, looked up from his typewriter in vague wonder.

"You never know what to expect around here," he murmured philosophically. "The other day I met a bear in the elevator. Today an elephant drops in!"

Pretty Tough Schedule.

This elephant, a baby of little more than three years, came with a 16-year-old movie star—Sabu, a solemn young Mohammedan in a tweed suit and a cerise turban.

Sabu, the elephant boy in the film by that name, more recently seen in "The Thief of Bagdad" and soon to appear in Kipling's "Jungle Book," is winding up a nationwide defense savings stamp tour.

He dropped into Atlanta to present Minute Men badges and service bars to newspaper carriers who have been selling stamps and to make nine other appearances in the interest of stamp sales.

It was a pretty tough schedule for the little Indian boy and by late afternoon he was cross with weariness and shivering with cold, but he grew expansive over a cup of tea and an order of toast heaped high with butter and marmalade.

"I'd like to get a crack at those Japs," he said between bites of toast and marmalade. "The war is getting pretty close to my home in Mysore, India. This tour is the only thing I seem able to do to serve my country."

When Sabu speaks of his country, he is talking about the Indian States, where he has been off and on since he was 11 years old. He is an orphan and his older brother, Shaik, usually travels with him as his manager. His closest link with his native India is the receipt once a month of 60 cents, two rupees, which is paid him because of his late father's position as keeper of the maharajah's elephants. Sabu succeeded his father and was keeping elephants in India when Alexander Korda discovered him.

Travels With Tutor.

Sabu's tutor, a blond young man named Austin Menzies, who used to teach in a Hollywood high school, travels with him and attempts to work in several hours of American history, English and mathematics, every day. He confesses that Sabu is sometimes an obstreperous pupil as the average 16-year-old high school junior, but is inclined to brag a bit about his charge's ability at "math."

"I want Sabu to go to school for awhile for the good association with other boys will do him," Menzies said. "He's very mature for his years, but he has been thrown with grown people too much."

"Yes, I'd like to go to college and play football," put in Sabu eagerly. "I like football!"

Constitution carrier boys who received awards from Sabu on the stage of Loew's Grand were: Pierce Chatham, C. H. O'Quinn, V. S. Taylor, D. B. Swofford, E. T. Bowen, Victor Johnson, Clyde Brannon, C. Plane Crash Summer Drive At Singapore Can Beat Nazis, Hurt Wavell Says Litvinoff

In Beleaguered City Day Before It Fell to Japs.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—General Sir Archibald Wavell, supreme commander of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific, broke a rib in an airplane accident at Singapore the day before that city fell to the Japanese, Secretary of War Stimson disclosed today.

He had been on a visit to the city and suffered the injury when his plane crashed as he was taking off. Stimson also revealed that Wavell had been under heavy artillery fire in Singapore while the fierce battle for that city raged.

Wavell also wanted to visit General Douglas MacArthur in beleaguered Bataan, Stimson said, but MacArthur sent him a message discouraging such a visit on the ground that the commander in chief's life was too valuable to risk.

Russian Envoy Declares Reds Will Need Aid Most This Year.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, declared tonight he believed Hitler could "be destroyed by the summer."

In his first public address since taking over his post in Washington, prepared for delivery before the Overseas Press Club and broadcast by MBS, the Soviet ambassador warned that the opportunity for a summer victory over Hitler might be missed and said: "Only by simultaneous offensive operations on two or more fronts separated by long distances could Hitler's armed forces be disposed of and that is why Hitler would dislike such operations."

Litvinoff declared the coming spring offensive of the German armies in Russia would be a make or break effort for the Axis and added that "we should like our Allies and friends to see this as clearly as Hitler does, and act accordingly."

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 27, 1942.

The 40-Hour Week

There is a strong movement in congress to amend the wage and hour law so as to lift the maximum number of work hours permitted above the present forty-hour week level. It is proposed to make the new maximum 48 hours, for the duration of the war.

There should be no objection to this, either from organized labor or any other sources. This is war we are in. It is a war that will be won or lost on the production lines of the war factories. We cannot afford to run any danger of a labor shortage, any more than we can afford to run the danger of too few men in the armed forces.

We must have sufficient manpower in our army, navy and air force to smother the enemy anywhere in the world. We must have sufficient man and woman power in our factories to provide those fighting forces with a superabundance of everything they need to win.

The wage and hour law was passed at a time when the country was faced with a difficult unemployment problem. One of the principal arguments advanced for the limitation of work hours was that jobs would be provided, thereby, for more workers.

The situation has changed. Under the pressure of war demands we already face, in many skilled occupations, a serious shortage of labor. As the war production program accelerates, which it must do, fast, that shortage of labor will extend into all ranks. The time is not far distant when our problem will be, not to find jobs for our people, but to find the workers to do the essential tasks.

Already serious consideration is being given the proposal to mobilize the entire nation on a war footing, so that every man and woman capable of holding a tool or performing any service, may be drafted and sent where he or she is most needed.

Organized labor representatives have argued, correctly, that if the hours of work per individual worker are unduly extended, the production rate drops. This is because a man or woman who works too long loses speed as well as accuracy and the result is, above a certain limit, overwork constitutes a production loss, instead of a gain.

The line where gain stops and loss begins, however, is far above the forty-hour-week mark. English workers, at the time it was discovered overwork was reducing their production capacity, were working 60 or more hours per week, largely on their own desire.

There is no danger of reduced production speed or impairment to any worker's ability by a schedule calling for 48 hours per week. This is war. "There is no discharge in the war." Our men in uniform cannot think of maximum hours, either when training or when they face the enemy.

No American should consider, for a moment, the amount of effort he puts forth when he is working for war purposes. Everyone of us should approach the task to be done with the full realization that, upon the results of the effort we, as individuals, put forth rests the issue of victory or defeat.

The only consideration should be the hours which permit the greatest production. If, by working 48 hours, a man can produce more guns or tanks or uniforms, or mess kits, or bullets or helmets than he can working 40 hours, it should be his proud privilege to work those 48 hours. If he can produce still more by working 56 hours, he should be eager to work those 56 hours.

But, if he finds his capacity is lowered by overlong hours, then let him find the line where he is at his production peak. And, regardless of all other considerations, work at that peak for the duration.

If we would win, "There is no discharge in the war."

Congress Thinks Again

Second thoughts are oftentimes best. Especially when the error of the first decision has been impressively pointed out.

Congress is to be congratulated that it has had the courage to acknowledge error and undo a mistaken thing. Both senate and house have now voted, overwhelmingly, for the repeal of the congressional pensions clause of the recently enacted civil service retirement fund act. Only five senators voted against the repeal and only seven members of the house. Neither in senate nor in house did a Georgia representative vote against the repeal move.

It was a tragic and serious blunder congress made when it provided for itself a system of annuities for old age, partially paid out of government funds. The tragedy came not so much in the act itself, as in the time it was enacted.

When the nation is at war, when men and women and little children, all over the land, are straining every nerve, making every sacrifice, to pay war taxes, to buy stamps and bonds for victory, to collect old paper, tinfoil, scrap metal and anything else which will contribute to the war effort, when millions of America's young men are wearing the uniforms of the fighting forces, it was utter tragedy for congress to vote to take money from the treasury to pay pensions to itself, no matter how large or how small the sum involved.

It hurt national morale, it lowered the already low enough confidence of the people in the present congress. It encouraged the spreaders of enemy propaganda, and it provided fuel for vicious whispering campaigns.

Now, however, repeal is voted. The congressional pension plan is a thing of the past. We can afford to forget it.

Let us, however, take time to compliment congress for a second, and better thought—after the nation had told them, in unmistakable manner, how wrong they had been.

And let us give further thanks that the entire incident has served, at least, to demonstrate that the voice of the people is still the ruler in the United States. That one fact alone makes the whole pension furore worth while.

73 Ships Sunk

The United States Navy, Army and Air Forces have sunk 73 Japanese ships since December 10. In addition, seven others are believed to have been sunk, though positive evidence is lacking, and 33 others are known to have been damaged.

Add to this total the number sunk or damaged by the Dutch—who have been sinking or damaging Nipponese vessels at the rate of one a day—and it is clear the Japanese are themselves suffering fearful losses in their wild attempt for world domination.

This shipping situation once again accentuates the importance of bases of the Allied Nations in the Pacific. It makes plain the vital necessity of hanging on to the East Indies, at least. For, to maintain anything like the rate of destruction we have wreaked upon Japanese shipping, it is essential we keep some bases for air and army and naval operations in the western Pacific.

Without such bases our only weapon would be long-range submarines. Only a small percentage of the sinkings to date can be credited to our submarines. Most have been either by air bombing or attack by naval surface vessels, both of which require bases from which to operate.

However, if we can keep up the rate, informed observers believe we can bring Japan to her knees in a year. This is because she has not the facilities to build ships for replacement of losses fast enough. At best, she could not build a million tons of new shipping a year, whereas our program calls for 8,000,000 tons a year.

Thus is seen how the war of attrition may at last force Japan into defeat. It is too early, yet, to feel confident, but the rate of ship sinkings we have inflicted on the enemy is, at least, sufficient ground for a feeling of encouragement in a war in which we are in sore need of encouragement.

Georgia Editors Say:

MATERIAL WASTE MUST BE STOPPED

(From The Americas Times-Recorder.)

Retail merchants are being called upon to take a leading part in the campaign against waste of essential materials.

At the moment, principal attention is being given to conserving rubber and paper. Merchants are asked to use a minimum of paper in wrapping parcels, and to use none at all for packaged goods. It is recommended that the number of store deliveries be reduced whenever possible.

The consumer should understand what is being done, and co-operate. Don't ask to have your purchases wrapped or put in bags if you can conveniently carry them as they are. Take your purchases home yourself, instead of asking for delivery service, whenever you can. Save boxes and paper of all kinds—they can be reclaimed and put to further use.

Experiments are now being conducted to discover whether or not it is feasible to reclaim the tin content of cans, and you are asked to save your used cans. Tin, like rubber, is fast becoming scarce.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

THAT SPRING DRIVE WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Continued gains being made by the Russians in their counter-offensive against the Germans offers encouragement to a new thesis offered in informed government circles as to the direction of the spring drive the Axis powers are expected to launch on many fronts soon.

Ever since the Nazi army was stopped on the outskirts of Moscow in December, the Berlin propaganda machine, attributing the failure to the severity of the Russian winter, has promised a resumption of offensive operations in the spring. Allied military circles have generally assumed that the return of mild weather in the land of the Soviets would see a renewal of the German drive in more intensified form than the war has yet witnessed.

Later, however, a new viewpoint has arisen. Competent observers of the war situation are venturing the suggestion that the Germans may forego any plans they had for launching a Russian spring offensive. Instead, Hitler may direct the spearhead of his attack against two other objectives, leaving his forces on the Russian front to conduct defensive operations much as they have during the past two and a half months.

The new Nazi assault, these observers say, would be aimed (1) at complete control of the Mediterranean area—Libya, Egypt, Gibraltar and the Suez Canal—and (2) forming a juncture with the Japanese in India through the Near East. The latter would involve a drive through Turkey and Iran, whose oil resources are greatly needed for the Hitler war machine.

Success of the Near East drive would leave Russia isolated, with the main British supply line in the Indian ocean cut off. Once all of this was accomplished, the Axis could then turn its attention again to Russia and reopen the delayed offensive. Simultaneous attacks could be made against the Red army by the Germans on the European front and by the Japanese in Siberia.

Senator Walter F. George, past chairman of the powerful Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is one of those who hold that this variation in the more orthodox conception of Axis military plans is tenable. A strong reason for viewing it as something more than a mere possibility, he says, is that the Germans renew their promised spring offensive against the Russians and are again stopped, they are licked. It would be too late for them to undertake the alternative campaign in full strength.

Recent cable stories out of Europe have given added color to the theme by reporting large German troop concentrations in the Balkan area. Military experts say this would mean the Nazis are preparing some move against Turkey.

Unless all the signs are wrong, Germany, Italy and Japan will soon launch an offensive in one or many directions that will be breathtaking. It is being referred to here and in London as the great offensive. The grandiose purpose back of all is to split up the Allied nations and win the war this year, if possible. Hitler and his puppet partners realize that, if the Axis is to win at all, it will have to come this year. Given another 12 months for American military production to reach its full heights, the balance of power will definitely shift to the Allied side.

ENCOURAGING REPORT One of the encouraging things revealed by the President in his recent fireside address was that our staggering production program will be completed according to schedule. Mr. Roosevelt quoted Donald Nelson, head of the War Production Board, as giving ample assurance on this score.

Knowledge of all of this will cause the Axis to redouble their war efforts this year. They cannot afford to fight a delayed action such as we are now.

If the suggested Axis alternative drive should succeed, two of the most populous countries of the world would be bottled up—China, with 425 millions of people, and India, with 350 million. Both are linked with the Allied cause.

HITLER, THE ADVENTURER Greater risks would be involved in the ambitious plan if Germany committed herself to the Russian offensive at the same time. She would be engaging in two far-flung offensives. It is doubtful that she has the manpower and materials left for such a venture.

But then Hitler has shown many times in the past that he is a desperate adventurer. No one can say that he may not try both. He is compelled to do something of the sort if he has any hopes of winning. The months ahead will be momentous, in any event.

Would You Like

To Be a Coolie?

It is well to hold fast to your supreme confidence in the ultimate victory for the Allied Nations in this war. Nevertheless no man with reason and observation can deny that, so far, it is going mightily badly for our side.

It isn't necessary to point to the all-too-numerous sinkings of oil tankers along our Atlantic coast—oil tankers are, perhaps, the most crucial items in the merchant marine in war time. If our oil supplies are too badly interrupted, what will we use to fly our planes, operate our mechanized Army and propel our Navy?

We should all realize, too, that the taking by Japan of Malaya, of Borneo, of Burma, of Sumatra and, probably of Java, gives our enemy mighty new sources of the materials of war. As our oil and rubber supplies are cut off, they gain new ones.

There are other factors, too. The increase in sinkings of our ships as the world-wide spread of the war puts too heavy a load upon our navy and that of the British. Spreads our protection too thin, in fact.

And there are elements for worry at home, too. War production is being refused to work on a holiday without double pay—and war plant managers who refuse to pay that double scale. Others workers who strike because they think an eight-hour day is sufficient war effort for them and object to working 10 hours a day, even to defeat the enemy.

Saboteurs and enemy agents scattering poisonous propaganda among us and, more's the reason to weep, too many gullible ones who swallow that propaganda of oil and tin, aid in spreading it.

Oh, no. The war is not going well for our side, so far. So, the question is quite pertinent to ask, "How would you like to be a coolie? If Japan wins and takes control of this country, that's what most of us will be. Coolies. Forced, slave labor for our Japanese masters. All of us, save the few Quislings.

Coolie Existence. It won't be living, you know. It will be a coolie. At best, it will be very painful existence. The Japs and their Nazi pals will want, for instance, big crops from America's wheat and corn and cotton fields. Lots of labor will be needed. Probably cheap, American coolie labor will be less expensive than using much farm machinery.

So they'll simply gather up so many tens of thousands of head, like droves of cattle, wherever there is sufficient population and ship 'em to the wheat fields and the cotton plantations, etc. And that labor will work, in hot sun or cold rain, work hard, with the ever-present threat of an overseer's lash to drive them on.

When it becomes too dark at night to work any more, they'll return to the barracks or sheds and there eat the little bit of pot of stewed meat and rice, or something like that, provided. Just enough to keep them alive and strong enough to work in the fields. No more.

Then they'll fall asleep, on the floor or anywhere, victims of utter exhaustion. They'll be kicked awake before daybreak, because they must be back in the fields, at work, when dawn comes.

Others in The Factories.

Japan, and her Nazi pals, will continue to operate the factories that once constituted American industry. But, again, the work will be done by forced labor, more American coolies. There'll be no eight-hour or 10-hour day to squabble over. The day will be, simply, sunup to sundown.

There'll be no hope for anything better—what has a slave to hope for? Only a continuance of wretched existence until death brings welcome release.

Do you think this is overdrawn? Consider, if you do, what the Japs have done to other conquered peoples. Why should they treat us otherwise?

Or refer, again, to the forecast by Walther Darre, Nazi minister of agriculture, of what Germany planned to do with the United States, even though this country never became a belligerent foe of Nazism. He promised to take all our products at whatever price Germany saw fit to pay and to turn us into a nation of impoverished laborers. He suggested 100,000 unemployed, at first, just to give us a warning. With millions dying of starvation.

Read Germany's plans for a conquered Britain. They begin by promising to reduce the British population by one-half, through starvation. Then to work the remainder in factories solely for the benefit of Germany.

There is lots more that could be cited. The evidence is conclusive. If we should fail to win this war, you and you and you and I—all of us—will be nothing but coolie labor. Unless we are fortunate enough to be dead.

And firing squads will, too, bring the blessing of quick death to many of us.

Think it over.

Twenty-Five

Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Tuesday, February 27, 1917: "WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—President Wilson today took the inevitable step and asked congress for authority to use the forces of the United States to protect American ships and lives against the German submarine menace."

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Letter From A Local

CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Having sometimes published letters from common Americans complaining of persecutions suffered at the hands of the licensed Brown Shirts who operate under the Wagner act, I think it would be fair and interesting today to publish one expressing the other side of the case. This comes on the letterhead of Local 1950, of the steel workers' organizing committee of the CIO, the same group which a few years ago kicked up a local insurrection against constituted government in south Chicago in which the Chicago police, having retired to the very gates of the steel plant, finally stood their ground for a fight in which 11 rioters, shoved into the forefront by professional instigators in the rear, lost their lives. None of the victims were employed by the steel company and the attack was a civil commotion intended to force the actual workers to join the union against their will.

Local 1950 is a Cincinnati group and the letter, dated February 9, is signed in ink, "A. J. Weichold, Secretary."

"The Birmingham Post strikers have emerged victorious from their strike for a semblance of a living wage and a decent American standard of living," says he, referring to a strike for a closed shop in the editorial department of that paper conducted by a local of the American Newspaper Guild which lost the contest after a tieup lasting three months.

Strike

Repudiated

The date of the steel workers' letter is three weeks after the formal repudiation of the strike by the parent Guild organization and the discharge from his union position of the man who, by a false vote, closed a law-abiding business and threw out of work many innocent employees who were barred from their legitimate employment by the moral, economic and physical terrorism of unionists proceeding under a fraudulent mandate.

"Local 1950," the letter proceeds, "is justly proud of the fact that it was permitted to contribute both financially and morally to this victory. You, as the boot-licking lackey of slave-driving Roy Howard, should meditate on the despicable part you took toward defeating these workers in their struggle and no one can deny you the title of Labor-Hater Deluxe. Your daily prattlings and disgusting propaganda against labor, organized or unorganized, as well as your constant condemnation of our President and his policies, has earned for you the justifiable contempt of all decent Americans and their Allies. Even that small and as yet not fully exposed class of traitors whose purposes and ideals you so faithfully expound for a few paltry dollars cannot help secretly sneering you and placing you in the same category which the Norwegian and German Nazi traitors place Quisling.

"The day of reckoning is fast approaching for you and your Fascist lords, that day when you will be held strictly accountable for your vicious and lying propaganda against our government and its deserving people."

Fraud

On Workers

After the out-law strike was lost in Birmingham, with the defeat of the closed editorial shop, the national organization of the Guild conducted an investigation, the findings of which substantially admitted that the strike had been a fraud upon the innocent workers, the management and the public because 30 votes were counted, 18 of which approved the strike, although the total number of members eligible to vote on the issue was only 10. It was further admitted that four imposters had received strike benefits who were ineligible for them and the strike, which the steel workers describe alternately as "victorious" in one place and a defeat in another, was renegeated, after the fact, as unconstitutional.

I refrained from writing about this strike at the time for several reasons, the least worthy of them being: a realization that if I did tell the truth in my usual restrained and scholarly way the unionists would need the Labor Relations Board with false insinuations that I had been put up to it by the dishonest employer who is financially interested, with many others, in the Birmingham Post, and might thus give the board an excuse to charge the Post with intimidation by remote control.

"Let Him

Fret"

However, I did have the mischievous pleasure of informing a gentleman involved in the controversy on the side of the law-abiding owners and the disemployed innocent workers that an uncommonly nasty and arrogant shyster on the outlaw side of the case had been convicted of rane several years ago and I have since heard that the shyster's demeanor moderated abruptly when this interesting citation was mentioned to him. I may publish the citation some day, but, meanwhile, let him fret.

The character of this letter, as to honesty and the facts of the case, is about average for the unionists, who, like their Nazi colleagues in the Brown Shirts, spit on truth and the human dignity and freedom of those whom they would bully into line. But the threat of a general gut-letting of all those Americans who have had the citizenship to expose and oppose the terror, although not personally disquieting, is something new, and suggests an advance in policy.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

IN RETROSPECT WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 26.—Washington always thrills me. Coming into it from the air, the whole panorama of it is spread out below. One can see Mount Vernon on the way in. There is the rich marble tribute to the weary Lincoln.

Here and there one can pick out, from the air, some of the others. Jefferson's is new. The plane swings closely by the Washington monument. The white dome of the capitol, the massed weight of the buildings of the government, the broad avenues, all these have a story. From the air it looks calm and austere.

Washington, on the ground, is crowded, confused. The faces of the people are strained. Even the faces of the myriad women come here to work are harassed looking. Not many laugh. Lights burn in the government buildings all night long.

Men and women are working in Washington. If they are confused, if there is uncertainty and waste, it is not so much their fault as it is the fault of all of us. It is the American fault. And it is an old fault.

The greedy ones are here as are the patriotic ones. The seekers of contracts, the consciousness ones who would as soon rob their country as not, are here. The crackpots, the lazy, the earnest, the able, the dreamers, the doers. All are here.

One could look at some of the scenes and go out and preach earnestly on the subject of Belshazzar's feast and the unseen hands of an avenging God who wrote the words of doom on the wall. Yet—

One could walk 50 yards and see the earnest, patriotic men and women devoted to duty, to sacrifice and to the job of serving their country, and go forth and preach that here are the Spartan virtues and that the basic strength of America still lives and does.

You may select your texts here. You may see parasite or producer, patriot or thief.

There is something else.

A SENSE OF HISTORY There is a sense of history in Washington. One can feel it. It was here that Andrew Jackson toiled and fought the forces which selfishly sought to make the government serve special privilege. Here Jefferson had to face plots of rebellion.

It was here the lonely Lincoln, often unaccompanied, walked the streets at night, his head bowed, his hands clasped behind him, sorrowing about the war.

It was here that he looked from his windows and saw Early's camp fires burning across the Potomac. It was here, as you may read in any number of good books in which the research has been done painstakingly, that there was graft and corruption in those days when the armies of the South knocked at the door. There is no more shameful period in the history of our government than the story of confusion, waste, mistakes, weak men, the venal men, the thieves, contractors, the greedy ones who made up the sordid picture of those years. The gross crimes of Grant's administration were to be matched by those of Harding's.

FOR BETTER, FOR WORSE I would not know whether to say things are better or worse. I think they are better. We know we are better prepared mentally and physically than in 1917.

We know that they cursed Washington when he was President in Philadelphia; that they accused him of fraud and of selfish dealings.

We know that we blundered through our early years, sustained by the patriotic, the workers, the unselfish who always have been found. We know there was no unity in the anti-concave war with Mexico, which was not all comedy. Men died. They called it Polk's war. They fought it in congress. There were men who got rich out of that war.

The Civil War is recent enough for us to know that even in the south there were the profiteers who sold bad shoes and bad blankets and food and tents. Even so, it could not match the thieving in the north.

The scandals of the Spanish-American War, when more men died from spoiled food sold the Army by profiteers, and from disease brought on by mismanagement and by poor handling and care of the men, are even closer to us. Ten to one they died at home of profiteers and disease.

There will be no men made multimillionaires in this war as there were in 1917-18. There is waste. But it is not as bad. There are more controls. Men have changed. Laws have.

So, here in crowded, confused Washington, the old voices speak, saying:

"It always has been so. We are a proud, spoiled, petulant people, eager to do the right thing, but eager, too, to have our say, to voice our opinions, to put over our own deals. A man who would not cheat his government on a contract will exert pressure to get an unworthy man a job and keep him there. We accept rumors, we resolute, we deplore, we cheer. And all the while the machine keeps going on, getting up power and finally it crushes the other machine. This time they say the stakes are greater, the threat more dangerous. I do not know. They always said that. Once a hostile army burned the White House. Once the hostile fires burned across the river."

So say the voices. The streets are filled, the hotels and boarding houses are filled, the city hurries. The lights burn all night. The uniforms add color to the scene. The tempo is fast. Men curse delay and men sweat to ease it. Over the nation men curse Washington and its fumbling. But the machine is gaining speed.

We can hope—and help. I do not think the fateful words are written on the walls of our history.

Passengers and Crew Were

Doomed When Officials Chose

the Titanic's Course

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

A certain wise man said: "Any system of government is a good system if good men direct it, but any system is a bad system if bad men direct it."

Each passing day brings new evidence to prove this saying true. Some weeks ago a passenger plane crashed against a mountain, in weather so clear that another pilot, flying above the wreck some minutes later, was able to identify it.

Fifteen Army fliers were killed. They were the pick of our crop. In physical and mental Portrait of an energetic Atlantan who doesn't have to report to work until 11 a. m. but is awakened at 7 a. m. by a telephone call.

"No use going back to bed now," he remarks, having a habit of talking to himself because that's the only way he has of talking with no fear of interruption.

"I'll hustle around and do all the little things and get down to work at 9, surprising the elevator man."

So he goes back for his bathrobe and slippers, finds a cigarette, braves the wintry blast in the darkness of the front porch, brings in the milk and the morning paper and goes down to the basement to stoke up the furnace—which contains only a few crimson coals.

By this time the dog is yelping for admittance and must be admitted lest he arouse the neighbors. Fifteen minutes of trying to read the headlines while repulsing the dog.

Time to go to the cold kitchen and brew some coffee. Then a return to the paper.

It is now 8 a. m.

"I can still make it by 9 if I hurry," says the subject of our remarks. "I have to get up with people who just stall around. But I do want to read the funnies, including Mrs. Roosevelt."

Time marches on. The inexorable hands on the mantel clock announce it is 8:57, war time. There is a dim glow of dawn in the east where one naturally would expect it.

"Dog," remarks our hero, "you are lucky. You don't have to shave and you have a bath only once a month. I then, But I've got to go back to the bathroom and hunt up a fresh razor blade, if there is one, and now this repulsive growth off my face, including the neck. But I haven't read Pegler yet. So I think I'll do that first."

The Mail Arrives

It is now 9:35 and the postman has deposited the morning mail in the box on the curb. Mr. Energy gathers his robe about him and goes out to see what blessings have been brought, dropping a loose slipper on the way out and again on the return trip.

The mail consists of two trade journals, five envelopes from movie studios, the gas bill, the current issue of Our Dumb Friends, two missives from loan companies offering money on ridiculously easy terms and a reminder to make tax returns.

At 10:15 our subject emerges from the bathroom, shaved and washed and wondering if the laundress had put his underwear in his room or left it down the laundry. Investigation proves the latter is correct.

At 10:45 he has his hat and overcoat on, has put the protesting dog out, and is all set to face the chill breezes of February.

"Maybe," he mutters, "I can make it to the shop by 11:30—if I'm lucky in catching a bus."

Somewhere between Buckhead and College Park there may be one of those squirting oases that squirts according to design. But I have yet to discover it.

I like to picture a German or Japanese regiment, struggling across a desert. The soldiers' tongues have been hanging out from thirst until they're getting underfoot. It is the third day without a trace of moisture. But the general, who is right out in front, this being a retirement to a previously chosen position, reassures them.

"Only 17 miles ahead," he sends the word back along the lines, "there is water. Running water. Fresh, cold, gurgling water, with a device keeping it germ free. Just one more effort, lads."

And they reach the fresh, gurgling, germless water—trickling through one of those automatic squirters—which squirts enough in an hour to wet the general's mustache.

If our strategists could fix it up to provide automatic drinking fountains for the enemy the war would soon be over. I'm wiring the suggestion to Washington.

Mr. Barrymore

Picked up somewhere—story about John Barrymore, the Great Profile.

Somewhere out west he was guest at a public dinner for some worthy object. The toastmaster, a banker and pillar of the church, looked around for somebody to ask the blessing, but the secretary had forgotten to invite a minister.

Toastmaster had a happy thought. He suggested that Barrymore do it.

John rose, posed, and remarked: "There being no preacher present, let 's thank the Lord."

We are repeatedly told to conserve paper and told many ways to do it. I'm helping out by declining to answer letters.

But, in the meantime, the publicity bureau of every federal agency and the Army and Navy continue to flood newspaper offices with material for which there is no space and there's no news in it, anyway.

And though it has been a long time since I was a movie editor, my daily mail still contains envelopes full of mimeographed matter from every studio in Hollywood. That is, I suppose, that's what the envelopes contain. I never open one.

Five or six big-shot pugilists have joined up with the Army, which sounds good. But our new enemy doesn't fight with gloves and never heard of the Queensberry rules.

Editor, Constitution: Please allow me the privilege of commenting on your editorial of Feb. 26, in which you stated that you were 100 per cent moral support for your work in ferreting out and exposing recent actions of our congress in dipping their hands in our national treasury.

With the coming of our country, which to a great extent, is a result of their muddleheadedness, it certainly is a most inopportune time for these men who profess to be servants of the people to display such narrow and selfish characteristics.

I think you are doing the very best thing for the taxpayers and our entire citizenry who have at heart the whole-hearted prosecution of a life struggle such as has never confronted us before. Keep hammering the subject and never let it die from the minds and hearts of the public until this scandal has been righted, the law repealed and forever written into congressional statute. Heaven only knows what would become of our country and government if we did not have the press to dig up and expose such misdeeds of those whom we have commissioned to steer our ship of state.

Don't forget that everyone who reads the papers feels just as I do, and you can rest assured that if you fellows keep up this good work, we will be glad to keep these pillagers honest, whether from their own volition or from compulsion.

Editor, Constitution: I have spent much time since you published a letter dated February 19, 1942, purporting to come from Luke McCauley of Austell, Ga., trying to locate someone who knew McCauley. There is no such person living in or near Austell.

The letter which purported to come from him erroneously charges Governor Talmadge with responsibility for pipe-line legislation. Of course he had nothing to do with it. The only legislation I have ever known Governor Talmadge to have signed was the one which gave him the right to appoint and remove judges.

As these German offensives develop, the German air force will launch heavy blows at the British navy in the Mediterranean. These would attempt to close eastern bases to all but Italian ships protected by an umbrella of Nazi planes. The ships would supply the Rommel as he advances, this conquering the problem of supplying his mechanized army overland across the desert.

The Japanese would move eastward from their present position once they have gained control of the Netherlands East Indies. The first objectives would be Burma and air supremacy over India.

The British informant did not believe the Japanese would seek immediate conquest of India, but would by-pass the west coast and continue to move across the Indian ocean in answer to German commands.

Ceylon and the British naval base at Trincomalee would be objectives, once Burma is occupied. From there the Japanese would reach out toward Madagascar and the east coast of Africa. A deal for bases in Madagascar already is being cooked up between Vichy and Tokyo, informed quarters here assert, although this has been denied by the Japanese government.

Once established in Madagascar and Ceylon, the Japanese, with their present air superiority, would be able to close the Indian ocean to the Allies and cut the supply route along the African coast. This route is vital to the Allied war plans. Other efforts chosen at the same time include Paul Chipman, recording secretary; William Van Houten, secretary-treasurer; William Kemp, E. L. Crushing Axis Drive To End War Seen

By DREW MIDDLETON.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(Wide World)—Germany and Japan will seek to end the war this summer through a world-girdling drive converging upon the coveted and fabulously wealthy oil fields of the Caucasus and Iran, a high British source says.

The gigantic plan, this informant related, calls for the Germans to smash through southern Russia into the Caucasus while the Japanese Army threatens coastal India, Burma, Ceylon and Madagascar, and, approaching through the Persian gulf, thrusts at Suez and Iran.

The German U-boat offensive under way in the Atlantic complements the grandiose Axis blueprint for conquest.

The Nazi Navy hopes to pin United States battle units in the Atlantic, he said, thus aiding the Japanese while at the same time waging an offensive against the Allied tanker fleet. Behind this undersea campaign is the Axis belief that the United States and British production would not matter if their oil lines are cut.

Success of Plan.

Success of the plan would mean isolation of the United States from Europe, North Africa, Asia and Australia. Such a conclusion would be the signal for Axis peace talks which would strip Britain of the last vestiges of her old world power and leave the United States alone in a hostile and menacing world, threatened from east and west.

Here is the British expert's outline of the mightiest military plan in history:

German armies now massing on the southern Russian front have turned over garrison duties behind the lines to subject races. By spring Hitler will have 125 to 150 divisions ready for the offensive. One hundred of these would be hurled through the Ukraine into the Caucasus; the others will hold Soviet armies in the north.

The present German plans are to leave Turkey alone, unless the Red Army breaks through the Caucasus front. If this happens, a small but highly mechanized army in the Balkans will push through Turkey toward the Caucasus, diverting Soviet troops from other fronts.

Rommel To Attack.

Every effort will be made to divert British troops from Iraq and Iran. Marshal Erwin Rommel will attack across North Africa, with the main drive along the coast striking ostensibly at Suez but in reality at Iraq. This movement, although in considerable force, is no more than a flanking movement to take any hands in at all were those measures which formed a part of the Georgia Democratic party platform. He has always fought for them, as he was pledged to do, as the party nominee is elected to carry out such. Each session of the legislative assembly with what they call an "administration calendar," but I never knew anything to get on Talmadge's "administration calendar."

As these German offensives develop, the German air force will launch heavy blows at the British navy in the Mediterranean. These would attempt to close eastern bases to all but Italian ships protected by an umbrella of Nazi planes. The ships would supply the Rommel as he advances, this conquering the problem of supplying his mechanized army overland across the desert.

The Japanese would move eastward from their present position once they have gained control of the Netherlands East Indies. The first objectives would be Burma and air supremacy over India.

The British informant did not believe the Japanese would seek immediate conquest of India, but would by-pass the west coast and continue to move across the Indian ocean in answer to German commands.

Ceylon and the British naval base at Trincomalee would be objectives, once Burma is occupied. From there the Japanese would reach out toward Madagascar and the east coast of Africa. A deal for bases in Madagascar already is being cooked up between Vichy and Tokyo, informed quarters here assert, although this has been denied by the Japanese government.

Once established in Madagascar and Ceylon, the Japanese, with their present air superiority, would be able to close the Indian ocean to the Allies and cut the supply route along the African coast. This route is vital to the Allied war plans. Other efforts chosen at the same time include Paul Chipman, recording secretary; William Van Houten, secretary-treasurer; William Kemp, E. L. Abercrombie, W. Turner, Miss Ira Jarrell, A. B. (Bud) Foster, H. P. Cetti, vice presidents. Foster and Gormley are new officers, but all the rest were re-elected.

The group passed resolutions asking Fulton county authorities to increase the county's relief levy one-fourth mill to provide approximately $50,000 additional for relief purposes.

No debate necessary to prove the value of Constitution Want Ads. Phone WA. 6565.

Governor Hits Equal Salaries For Negroes

Says Suit Is Step Toward Co-Racial Education.

By The Associated Press.

Equal salaries for white and Negro teachers, the Governor predicted yesterday, would be the forerunner of attempts "to admit the Negroes to all of our schools and other public places."

He asserted that "Negro teachers of Georgia know that they are not entitled to the same pay as white teachers. They know that the comparison in their tax returns does not warrant it. They know that the case of living for the Negro is nothing like as high as that for white persons."

A suit was filed in federal court here last week seeking to compel Atlanta school authorities to pay Negro teachers the same salary as white teachers if they have equal qualifications.

Similar suits have been filed in other southern cities as part of a wage-equalization program sponsored by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. The association has headquarters in New York.

"The Negroes of Georgia are being imposed upon by their so-called friends up north," said the Governor. "Such as this will do no good in the south and should not be countenanced."

Salaries paid white teachers in Georgia range from $10 to $80 per month and for Negroes from $25 to $60.

In the same statement, published in his political weekly, The Statesman, the Governor took accrediting agencies to task for oppressing colleges in the State University System from their approved list.

Siamese Twin Girls

Born in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Siamese twin girls were born today to Mrs. Jessie Picciotti, 25, at St. Vincent's hospital, Staten Island.

The babies were connected from a point just below the chest to about an inch below the navel—a distance of about three inches.

Dr. Peter Timpane, who delivered them, said they were healthy, and he would ask other physicians to consult with him as to the feasibility of an operation to separate them.

The weight of the twins together was 6 pounds 4 ounces.

Jacket Fencers, A.F.C. To Clash

Tech's varsity and freshman teams will join together for a dual match this Saturday night in the Naval Armory at 7:30. The Jack-fencers will attempt to stretch their unbroken string of victories to five straight at the expense of the Atlanta Club which they defeated 12-1-2 to 4-1-2 earlier in the season. The Baby Jackets, twice vanquished by T. M. I., but victors over the Boys' High team, will endeavor to keep in the win column by downing the Fencing Club's Preps.

Tech, greatly encouraged by their win over Fort Benning last Saturday, should be able to throw their full strength against the club, profiting by the experience they have undergone since the last encounter. The Fencing Club, on the other hand, is hoping to add to their personnel, which was conspicuous by its absence last time. Ensign Jack Ivey, who starred for the club, will be back again, and it is possible that Frank Graham can also be present from Camp Gordon to fence saber and foil. Van Burgin, who was unable to participate before because of illness, is a very probable starter in the foil.

Chandler, Donald Sign With Yanks

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—Spud Chandler and A. J. Donald, two of the right-hand pitchers who fit very much into the scheme of things with the New York Yankees this season, signed their 1942 contracts today. They donned uniforms immediately and took part in the world champions' workout.

Signing of the two six-footers left nine members of the Yankees, headed by Joe DiMaggio, still out of the fold.

League Refuses Feller Permit To Pitch

Sox Land Foxx, Pytlak; Trucks Is in Tiger Fold

Rowe and Trout Still Out; Russo, Murphy In; Rucker Signs.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—What happened off the field was much more important to Manager Joe Cronin today when he opened the Boston Red Sox spring training season by putting six pitchers and two catchers through their initial paces.

After the drill, Jimmy Foxx arrived and said he had "practically agreed to salary terms." Then General Manager Eddie Collins phoned from Boston that Frankie Pytlak, first-string catcher, had forwarded his signed contract. While Cronin gloated over those happenings, he was informed that Pitcher Oscar Judd had straightened out his passport difficulties and would entrain from Ingersoll, Ont., for camp tomorrow.

RUCKER SIGNED.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—Taking advantage of Bill Jurgens' salary dispute, veteran Dick Bartell handled the shortstop position for the New York Giants with old-time vigor today and pepped up the entire squad in a brisk drill. Bartell also signed his contract today, along with First Baseman Babe Young and Outfielder Johnny Rucker.

DOGGERS HUSTLE.

HAVANA, Feb. 26.—(P)—Manager Leo Durocher hustled his Brooklyn Dodgers through a three-hour workout today in an effort to get them in shape for exhibition games with the New York Giants here Saturday and Sunday.

Pitcher Kirby Higbe, reporting for his first drill, was given the works by Durocher, who had him running all over the field and capped the day by administering a stiff medicine ball workout to the hurler himself.

CRY-BABY TROUBLE.

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers reduced their large contingent of holdouts today by signing Virgil (Fire) Trucks, their most promising rookie pitcher, but there appeared to be an ample accumulation of salary arguments for General Manager Jack Zeller when he arrives in camp Sunday.

Of those in camp, Schoolboy Rowe and Paul (Dizzy) Trout haven't agreed to Detroit terms in a drastic reduction of the club payroll, and principal dissenters among the absentees are Pitchers Bobo Newsom and John Gorsica, First Baseman Rudy York and Catcher Bill Sullivan.

HEATH ULTIMATUM.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—(P)—"Sign or sit," the Cleveland Indians told holdout outfielder Jeff Heath today. Declaring Heath has rejected a second contract with a demand of about 50 per cent more than was offered, President Alva Bradley said "we have no intention of sending Jeff another contract."

O'DEA REPORTS.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—Catcher Ken O'Dea, obtained by the St. Louis Cardinals in the Johnny Mize deal, reported to Manager Billy Southworth today and took part in his first spring workout, leaving Harry Gumbert the only unsigned batteryman.

MARTY ENLISTS.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(P)—The Phils lost another player today when Outfielder Joe Marty informed President Gerry Nugent he had decided to enlist in the Marine Corps.

DICKEY, RUFFING OUT.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 26.—(P)—A batting drill which lasted an hour and a half featured the work-out of the New York Yankees today, their stiffest of the young training season.

The Yankees signed Pitcher Johnny Murphy and announced the signing of Lefty Marius Russo in New York, leaving Pitcher Red Ruffing and Catcher Bill Dickey the only batteryman still unsigned.

Bowling

The Cookies are leading the Housewives' League with seven victories out of nine games. About 40 women compete each Monday morning at 10:30 at the Palace alleys. Groceries are given as prizes, and many bring their children along. Several more bowlers can be accommodated each Monday.

Twenty-five leading bowlers of the city have signed up to compete in the annual Metropolitan tournament, which will start at 2 o'clock Saturday at the Lucky Strike alleys. The last block of five games will begin at 7:30 at the downtown alleys.

The entrants may also compete for the 26-piece set of Rogers silverware being given away in a handicap event run at the same time Saturday night. Scores for the last block in the Metropolitan will be counted and only 50 cents additional fee may be charged those wishing to compete in both events. Handicaps will be allowed, although the Metropolitan itself is a scratch event.

Entrants to date for the Metropolitan include Lucile Rawlins, Katherine Burnett, Flossie Boland, Marcellite Pearce, Mrs. John Blick, Allie Kilpatrick, Mrs. Moody, Era Hattaway, Grace Cunningham, Katherine Herder, Miss Mayo, Tommie Carper, Bebe Bangert, Estelle Warrington, Rachael Cloud, Ruth Jones, Jewell Jones, Johnnie Carter, Martha Cleveland, Reba Painter, Emily Kimbro, Katie Groover, Lucy Walters, Nell Moseley and Lundy Ann Dean. Others will enter later.

A.W.G.A. Meets Monday To Set Play for Year

Plans for the coming season will be made by the Atlanta Women's Golf Association at a meeting Monday at the Ansley Park Club. There will be golf at 9 a. m. followed by the meeting at 2 p. m. Dorothy Kirby and Louise Suggs and several other Atlanta golfers will compete in the Florida East Coast tourney at St. Augustine, March 10-14. Others are Llewellyn Wilburn, Mrs. Claude Swinney, Mrs. George Lowman Jr., Mrs. Mobley Sheppard, Mrs. W. M. Robertson, Mrs. Marvin Bass and Mrs. W. R. Pollard, president of the A. W. G. A.

26 Solons Sign Paper Favoring Miss. Football

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 26.—(P)—The battle over proposed abandonment of intercollegiate sports by Mississippi's public colleges spread today when 26 pro-athletic representatives put their views before the house in a resolution and a member of the college board declared that "considerable pressure is being brought from all sides."

The resolution introduced in the house and referred to the committee on university and colleges was a counterblast against one already lodged with the committee favoring the abandonment of intercollegiate athletic competition for the duration.

Neither would bind the board of trustees of institutions of higher learning, but simply would set out the sentiment of the house. The board is considering a proposal that the schools drop athletic schedules and has appointed a subcommittee to study the status of contracts with coaches and out-of-state schools.

Indians Seek All-Star Game Okay for Bob

Frick Favors Allowing Service Stars To Participate.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—(P)—American League magnates recently refused to permit Bob Feller to pitch for Cleveland during any summer furloughs he might get from the Navy, the Indians' president, Alva Bradley, disclosed today.

Bradley said the Tribe, however, hasn't given up hope of getting permission for Feller to work in one of this year's two all-star games, although league magnates frowned on that idea, too.

"All club owners were afraid that Bob, bearing down in an occasional game, might damage his arm permanently," said the Indians' proxy. "But the big objection was on the score of precedent. If Feller can pitch on furlough, then why can't every other ball player in the service be used when he's available? There would be a lot of confusion and unfairness."

Frick emphasized this was strictly his personal viewpoint, after being told the Cleveland Indians still hope to get permission for Bobby Feller to work in one of the two scheduled all-star contests. Such other stars as Hank Greenberg, Cecil Travis and possibly Ted Williams, of the American League, and Hugh Mulcahy, of the National, also would fit into the plan.

Stolz, Ruffin Vie For Title Chance

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(P)—A couple of youngsters who don't like each other will prove it for the cash customers in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night, and, incidentally, climb up to within shouting distance of a shot at the lightweight championship.

Ordinarily, when you hear of one of these grudge matches, you place your tongue, gently but firmly, in your cheek, snicker loudly and advise your informant you'll have your bologna sandwich on rye. But the something-less-than brotherly love between Allie Stolz, of Newark, and Bobby Ruffin, who migrated from Bridgeport, Conn., to Long Island, has been a matter of record along Jacobus Beach for three years, when they split a pair of close decisions.

19 Fights Per Night in 1 Ring Is Schedule for Golden Gloves

Boxing fans will not have to wish two pairs of eyes this year at the Southeastern Golden Gloves tournament, which opens a four-night run at Warren Sports Arena Monday night.

A. A. U. officials said yesterday that the battling would be confined to one ring, eliminating the possibility of two interesting fights being staged at the same time, such as has occurred in past events when two rings were in use. Under the new setup, it will be possible for fans to see every blow in every fight.

The schedule calls for 19 fights each night for the first three nights and 18 on the final program. The field of approximately 85 fighters, made up largely of soldiers from Southeastern camps, will be a select group. Preliminary, qualifying tournaments have been held in many sections, out of which will come the boxers for the meet here.

At Pensacola a gigantic tournament is just being finished in which fighters from five Army and Navy camps have participated. The eight division winners will compete here. Fort Benning will send two powerful squads to Atlanta and other teams will include Marietta, Gainesville, Macon, Lanett, Ala., Atlanta Motor Base, Clayton, Ga., and possibly Burlington, N. C.

Atlanta will be well represented by the Y. M. C. A. and Boys' Club. The division winners will go to Chicago for the National. The fights will start at 8 o'clock each evening. Tickets are on sale at Muse's.

OLD JORDAN
Genuine Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey
A Fine Whiskey and Priced Right, Too

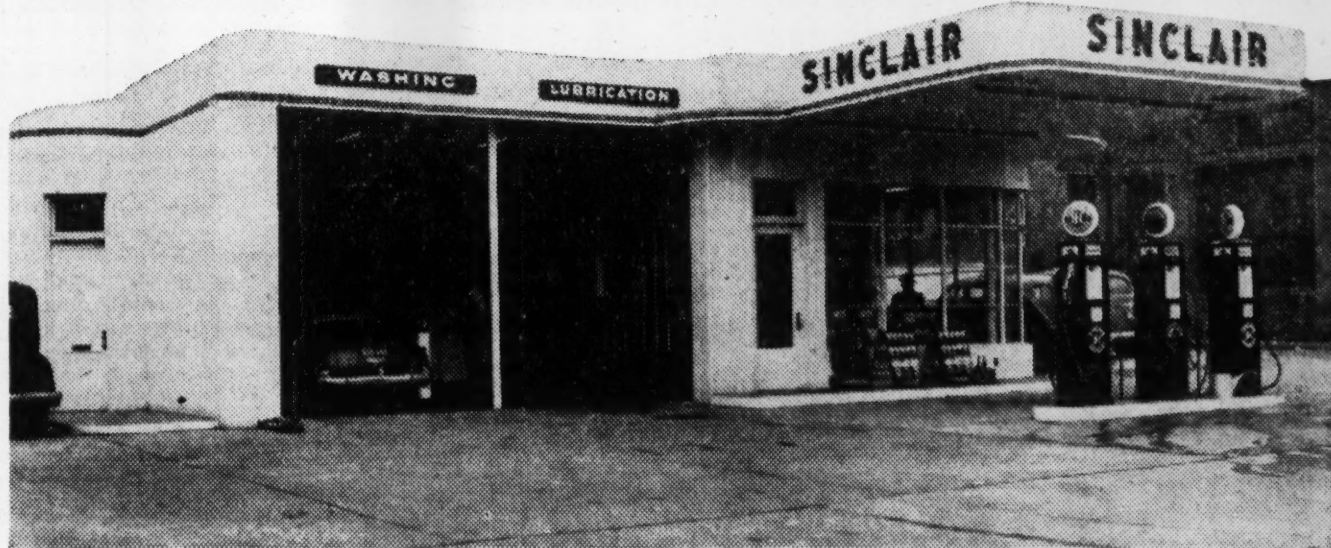

▲ Men who know bourbon know what it takes to achieve the delicious extra-smooth, extra-rich taste of Old Jordan Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey. We stick to the genuine old-fashioned method that takes more time, more care—the "slow" way we started 100 years ago. We still buy premium grains. Use more of them to the gallon. Simmer our mash slowly. That's how we get such extra smoothness, extra richness. That's why Old Jordan—genuine Kentucky Straight Bourbon Whiskey—every drop—sells so well in the "bourbon country", where men know their bourbon best. Yes, Old Jordan costs more to make but not to drink. So treat yourself to the extra pleasure of the genuine—Old Jordan.

Alabama Wins Despite Great Tech Rally, 37-32

Bulldogs Make Vol Five Fight For 62-50 Win

Defending Champs Have Tough Battle for 3 Quarters.

By ROMNEY WHEELER.
LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 26.—(AP) They don't pay off on moral victories, and Georgia tonight is out of the Southeastern Conference basketball tournament.

Tennessee's defending champions, touted to win in a walk-away from the 60-1 shot Georgia entry, were just another country ball team for three quarters of a first-round match and needed all the magic of the Mehen brothers to gain a 62-50 victory.

Earlier, Alabama's favored team took a similar scare, barely besting Georgia Tech, 37-32. The Tide meets Louisiana State in tomorrow's quarter-finals, while Tennessee plays Mississippi State.

Georgia grabbed a 5-1 lead in the opening minutes against Tennessee, increased it doggedly to 7-3, then 11-6, and finally 13-7 before the Vols recovered their balance and pulled even eight minutes before the half.

Then Paul Herman and Ted Cook found the netting in quick succession and Tennessee gained a 30-21 lead. But Georgia wouldn't give way.

Back on the big Louisville Armory floor after intermission, the under-rated Bulldogs fought every inch of the way, matching Tennessee goal for goal and foul for foul until Dick Mehen finally dropped two field goals in the closing minutes to gain a slight advantage.

Tennessee's "big" three, Paul Herman and the Mehen brothers, Bernie and Dick, scored 41 points between them. Georgia did as well, Buddy Roland, Ralph Spruill and Captain Bobby Moore scored a matching number of points.

Alabama, with sharpshooter, Louis Adair accounting for nine points in the first half, surged to a comfortable 21-12 lead and then held off Tech's last-period rally to win, 37-32.

Yellow Jacket scored with 13 points, but Tech's spectacular long shots couldn't cancel Bama's margin of superiority in recovering rebounds.

Can't Prove Birth! John Almond Bradberry, who's been running us all crazy this week trying to prove he was born, now is the despair of the round men of the sports department.

All through the day he comes in with something new to eat calculated, not to boost the calories of his daily fare, but to add weight to his sparse frame. He is trying to shake that lean Castilian look for the sake of a better showing when he reports to naval officials for an examination, both physical and mental.

First he's got to prove he was born, and this is becoming a rather distressing thing. There are no records. And the Navy is not willing to take his word for it. The Navy won't even take his old man's word for it.

Sure, the fact that he's very much alive and a match in size for Skinny Ennis, is prima facie evidence that the stork brought him, but where? That's the question. It's all a matter of being born in this country. Your Uncle Sammy checks and double checks from birth on this alien business.

Even after he proves his birth, however, I am afraid John Almond is going to provoke the round men of the department to drastic steps.

For it is not uncommon to see him sipping at a malted milk and nibbling a sandwich one hour and gulping a baked Idaho potato the next. And nothing happens. It's no use. He has even tried rice and gravy and a side order of spaghetti and meat balls for dessert.

But if Thad Holt or Al Sharp tried to eat bite for bite and drink sip for sip with Bradberry, in about a week's time Mr. Dudley Glass, upon seeing either of them enter the department, would offer, from his adjoining desk—"Have a seat. In fact, have two seats."

It's a shame, on the other hand, to waste a whole chair on Bradberry.

Mistaken for a Golfer Maybe the Navy should send Bradberry, with his lean Castilian look, to the Argentine in the interest of amity in the Americas.

For I distinctly recall what happened last summer when Mario Gonzalez, amateur champion of the Argentine, stopped here as a guest of the Coca-Cola Company to play a round with Bob Jones at East Lake.

There were pictures in the paper, of course, and shortly thereafter Bradberry, Tommy Reeder and Coot Watkins were playing at Ansley Park.

As they teed off a gentleman dressed in street clothes, who had been standing off at a respectful distance, followed them. He caught up with the trio at the fourth hole.

"Beg pardon, senor," he said, addressing Bradberry "you are off your game a bit, no?"

"How's that?" a startled Bradberry asked. "What did you say about my game?"

Bradberry was beginning to get a little red about the ears when the gentleman took a closer look.

"My mistake," he pursued. "I must need a new pair of glasses to mistake you for a senor, not to mention a golfer. Hmph!" Whereupon he strode way in high dudgeon.

In Short Used to be a fellow could play 18 holes of golf and then beg off on doing anything around home on the pretext he was tired. But this is war. Just try to outtalk the little woman now. Then you'll know what Sherman said is true.

Note to Felix, Philadelphia: This is not the movie or stage review section, but if you want my honest opinion about Joe E. Lewis as the No. 1 comedian, I'll send it under separate cover on asbestos paper. The only Joe E. I know who's halfway funny soon will be in Iceland, where I'm sure he'll chill the natives. His last name's Brown.

We're taking back everything derogatory ever said about Bob Pastor, once referred to as "Bicycle Bob, the back-pedaling prize." Since his eight-round kayo of Lem Franklin, the Cleveland colored star, he'll be linked with Dr. Livingstone.

Everybody knows what happened when Simple Simon met the pie man. And now Abe Simon's going to fight Joe Louis again. Some folks just never learn, do they?

Two Savannah Teams Move Up In G.I.A.A. Meet

Purples Beat Typists, 41-29; Tech High Loses 37-17.

MACON, Ga., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Two Savannah teams along with Boys' High, of Atlanta, and Lanier High, of Macon, advanced to tonight in the semi-finals of the G. I. A. A. basketball tournament.

Eliminated during the day was the favorite of pre-tournament seeding, powerful Jordan High, of Columbus. Trailing the entire game, Jordan's quintet lost, 32-26, to the Benedictine Cadets from Savannah, whose Chick Angelo scored 15 points from every conceivable angle.

In the second game of the quarter finals, Savannah High took the floor away from Atlanta's Tech High, winning, 37-17. The Blue Jackets were led by Jeff King, who earned 16 points.

Two Atlanta teams met in the third event with Boys' High trimming Commercial, 41-29. Two Purple stars, Lester Hughes and Bob Rayle, accounted for 21 points, while David Eisenberg, Big Six scoring leader, scored 13 points for the losers.

In the closing game of the third round, Lanier High's Poets, playing on their home floor, trounced Columbus High, 30-20.

Albert Jones Quits Post at Highland

LAGRANGE, Ga., Feb. 26.—The resignation of Albert Jones, golf professional at the Highland Country Club here for the past six and a half years, was announced yesterday to take effect the last day of March.

The number of golfers at the Highland Club has increased from 40 to 150 during the time of Mr. Jones' residence as golf pro there, and the general interest throughout the club membership in the game is steadily increasing.

Elmer Burnham Is Named Football Coach at Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Elmer Burnham, who began his coaching experience on a high school job, is to be Purdue University's head football coach, and Guy (Red) Mackey, who's worked nowhere but at Purdue, its athletic director.

The trustees chose them yesterday to succeed Allen H. (Mal) Elward Sunday. Burnham is head freshman coach and Mackey assistant varsity coach and administrative assistant to the athletic director.

Elward resigned the coaching job a week ago to re-enter the Navy, in which he worked his way up to lieutenant (senior grade) in the World War. The board relieved him of the athletic directorship January 22 but extended his coaching contract six months to December 31, 1942.

Modest 'Koily' Predicts 30 Wins

HAVANA, Feb. 26.—"I think I'll win 30 games this year," said Pitcher Kirby Higbe, who arrived at the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp yesterday and ended his one-man revolt against training in Havana. "But I would have been good for 40 if I had been allowed to remain in Miami."

Dave Hambrick Captain Of Boys' High Champs

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

David Hambrick, blond Bomber of the Boys' High Big Six defending champions, was rewarded for his two years of battling his heart out with the Purple scrubs by being named captain of the Hurricane five just before they left to compete for the state title in the G. I. A. A. meet at Macon.

Clint Castleberry, All-G. I. A. A. guard, was chosen alternate captain by the Purples, who vote for their captains near the end of the year instead of early in the campaign, so value to the team in the current campaign can be considered.

Hambrick, who is described by Coach Dwight Keith as "an honor roll student, a hard worker and a real credit to his school," richly deserved the captaincy.

A less stout-hearted lad would have given up basketball long ago. Hambrick was severely handicapped by his slight build in the beginning, but after two years of scrubbing he blossomed into stardom this year, and has been one of the chief factors in Boys' High's march toward a second straight Big Six championship.

Young David is a highly adept ball handler, plays a clever floor game, and is the most deadly long-range shot on the Purple squad. The fair-haired senior hopes to continue his education at Vanderbilt next year.

Alsab To Race Again Saturday In Flamingo

Ace Colt To Seek $25,000 Prize After Earlier Setbacks.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Albert Sabath, Chicago attorney, announced today that his Alsab—the big question mark of winter racing—will go to the post Saturday in the $25,000 Flamingo stake.

For several days he had been considered a doubtful starter, after two disappointing starts of the winter when he failed to justify last year's ranking as the nation's champion two-year-old.

Alsab worked at the track today and both Owner Sabath and Trainer August Swenke said they were well satisfied.

Mrs. Ralph McIlvaine's Bright Willie, no great shakes last year, meanwhile had become a favorite in the early reckoning, when Alsab was considered out of the race.

Henry Grady Club, A.A.C. Teams Meet

The Henry Grady Badminton Club and a team from the Atlanta Athletic Club will vie in a match at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the old Henry Grady gym.

The teams finished in a tie recently in a similar match at the Athletic Club.

Medals and prizes won in the recent Henry Grady Club tournament will be presented the night of the matches. No admission will be charged.

City Basketball

GATE CITY WINS.

Gate City Chapter 23 of A.Z.A. won the championship of the Jewish Educational Alliance Intermediate League on Tuesday by virtue of a hard-fought, 18-15 victory over the SOZ Reds, following a runaway game in which Gate City substitutes defeated Boy Scout Troop 27 by a 26-24 count.

The double victory gave Gate City the second-half title with seven victories and one loss. Previously Coach Sol Marshall's quintet had tied for the first-half crown with SOZ and had defeated them in a play-off. Gate City's season record in the league is 14 victories and three losses. The only loss was to SOZ in the first half, to JTC Bees in the second half, and to the Intermediate League All-Stars in a special golden jubilee game.

Third of Jap Cruisers Lost, Dutch Assert

Paper Cites Other Drastic Naval and Air Losses.

BATAVIA, Friday, Feb. 27.—(AP) The Japanese already have lost one-third of their cruisers, along with other drastic naval and air losses, the newspaper Soerabaja Handelsblad said today.

(Jane's fighting ships lists 35 Japanese cruisers of all types, and there are others of unknown number presumed to have been completed secretly. An Associated Press tabulation Thursday showed eight Japanese cruisers sunk by Dutch and American forces, four probably sunk and 20 damaged).

"Let there be no talk to the effect that the enemy's losses are of no concern to him," the paper said. "In the air his losses are equally heavy. He still has many aircraft, but our air force makes itself felt not only at Bali Island. In the region of Soerabaja—the big Netherlands East Indies naval base—the enemy every day shows high respect for our air defenses.

"The enemy must in the circumstances attack, and as he attacks he incurs losses which must give him something to think about. This is no time for being despondent."

DUBLIN, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A military court sentenced three men to be shot today for the murder of Michael Devereux, a gasoline salesman whose body was found on Tipperary mountain September 12, 1941, 12 months after he had disappeared. The case won widespread interest because of its alleged connection with renewed activities of the Irish Republican Army.

QUARTERMASTER BOYS ARE SAVING RUBBER

When the Quartermaster Corps boys pull a tire from one of their thousands of vehicles as soon as the tread is worn off, they're not wasting rubber—they're saving it.

The seeming paradox, explained yesterday by Lieutenant Hugh M. Lokey, inspection and conservation officer, is justified by the importance of the casing.

"If tires are run until the fabric shows," he said, "repairs and recapping are almost impossible. We can give the tires about twice their normal life by recapping as soon as the tread is gone."

Stone Mountain Blacks Out, Too

The blackout in Stone Mountain was 100 per cent perfect, defense officials of that city reported.

The municipality, receiving its signals from the Atlanta Control Center, turned on their giant siren, obtained from the Stone Mountain

Granite Company, and residents living more than three miles from the center of the town reported they heard the signal perfectly.

The siren was formerly employed to warn the general public when the granite company was setting off a gigantic blast of dynamite in the quarries.

The great beacon atop the mountain was not blacked out because of its importance to aircraft.

Seven Died, Nine Were Injured in Air Tragedy.

Just a year ago this morning a giant Eastern Air Lines sleeper plane coming into the municipal airport for a landing crashed on a wooded hill near Morrow, 10 miles south of Atlanta, killing seven and injuring nine persons.

Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, president of Eastern Air Lines and famous flyer of World War No. 1, was seriously injured in the crash and for several days hovered near death in an Atlanta hospital. He was forced to remain in the hospital for weeks. A guest at Atlanta's "Victory Dinner" last Monday night, he was given a rousing ovation.

Congressman William D. Byron, of Maryland, lost his life in the crash, along with Captain James Perry, of Atlanta, pilot of the ship. Among the injured were H. A. Little, assistant managing editor of the New York Times, and Mrs. Little, who also were confined to Atlanta hospitals for several weeks. The accident was one of the most serious in Atlanta's air history.

ers' two-day total to at least 51 and this was increased by a daring raid by American volunteer group pilots on a Thailand air-drome. The A. V. G. reported two Japanese bombers destroyed in the air and two fighters on the field.

(Chungking reports said the A. V. G. destroyed 34 planes over Thailand Wednesday and Thursday and lost none of their own.)

Of Britain's chances of holding Rangoon, London took a gloomy view. They said "a lot depends on the Chinese" but there was no official evidence that Chiang Kai-shek's troops were yet in position or strength to divert the Japanese drive on the seaport, now evacuated by virtually all civilians, aglow with the fire of British "scorched earth" demolitions and its sea approaches mined.

Brief Action.

The Chinese were in brief action in Burma a fortnight ago, and their present preoccupation with maneuvers in the upper Burma theater led experts here to suggest that a new United Nations' defense line may be in the making for defense of Greater India.

A likely line would be from Chittagong, east of Calcutta, to the Bay of Bengal, inland to Mandalay, with an anchor on the Thai border.

Reports from China told of the arrival in upper Burma of still more Chinese veterans, and other unconfirmed advices suggested the Chinese were in fact already in action there against the invaders.

A Chungking spokesman declared that Japanese reinforcements still were flowing into northern Thailand for a strong land and air offensive against the Chinese forces in the Shan states of northeastern Burma.

Plan 'Chute Attack.

There were indications, he added, that the Japanese were planning to use parachutists in an effort to obtain lodgments on the Burma side of the frontier mountains.

In India, more directly menaced now that the campaign for southern Burma generally appears to be going against the British, preparations were made against eventualities.

It was reported that 500 buildings in Calcutta had been converted to air-raid shelters and that the Indian government would not, as usual go to Simla this summer, but would remain in New Delhi. Certain parts of the Chittagong area already have been cleared of civilians.

OH, OH! LOOK HERE!—Taking advantage of the blackout downtown, these two couples sneaked a kiss in a darkened doorway last night. The "shot" was taken with infra-red bulbs, used by news cameramen during blackouts. The bulbs give no tell-tale flash. The principals in this picture were unaware they were being photographed during the blackout test.

SHOW GOES ON—Wana Lee, dancer at the Paradise Room of the Henry Grady hotel, did her terpsichorean stuff as usual last night, despite the blackout test. The windows of the Paradise Room were blacked out, and no light was visible outside. Note the candles on the tables of the guests. The show went on, true to tradition.

Just Think, Could Be Real, Observer Says

Group Atop Biltmore Sees Impressive Show.

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.

When the cacophony of deep-throated whistles warned Atlantans to turn off their lights last night a dozen people shivering in the moonlight 15 floors up atop the Biltmore's highest penthouse clutched their breezy ledge with cold-bummed fingers and waited for one of the most impressive shows their city will ever stage.

The big Eastern Airliner, its silver belly gleaming in the moonlight, set the tempo for the show as it roared overhead and its motors throbbed perilously close. "Just think," gulped one nervous spectator in the little crowd of auxiliary firemen, city officials, radiomen and newsmen, "Just think—that thing could be dropping bombs on us!"

Lights Go Out.

"That thing" zoomed north and the double necklace of lights that was West Peachtree went out, a link at the time. The street lights that dotted the city like a million little fireflies vanished. One by one the lights in the big frame house on the corner of Fourth street disappeared and by the time the watchers could turn their gaze south only one little bulb was left burning.

It was Announcer Doug Edwards' time to join the joint WGST-WSB broadcast to get his description in on the three-way conversation which emanated from the plane, the Rhodes-Haverty building, and the Biltmore. He mentioned the one light left burning and presto, it went out.

Friendly voices were coming in from the plane which now circled the city, now crossed it. Announcers John Fulton and Marcus Bartlett talked, the mayor talked, General E. G. Peyton talked. It looked good to them from the air, and Councilmen Paul Butler and Howard Haire and Grady Holbrook, of the Civilian Defense, agreed that it looked good to them from the top of the Biltmore.

Chimney Blazes.

Dark plumes of smoke floated skyward and Auxiliary Firemen C. L. Eastlin and L. D. Head anxiously watched a chimney to the south which blazed a moment and then flickered out.

The dark hulks of buildings surrounding the Biltmore were in complete darkness. And then the sirens and whistles rose again in wild crescendo. The plane headed for the airport. The alarm was ended—the show over.

"Happy New Year!" shouted a relieved city councilman—and the audience, stamping its feet and blowing its fingers, eased numbly down the 20-foot ladder on the sheer side of the penthouse to the roof below and went home.

an active member of the Second-Ponce de Leon Baptist church, died last night at a private hospital following a long illness. He resided at 465 Boulevard, N. E.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Scott Perkins; two sons, R. A. and E. M. Scott Jr.; a sister, Mrs. Annie Spencer, and a brother, W. L. Scott.

'Flight Strips' Will Safeguard U. S. Airpower

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26.—(AP) The nation soon will be dotted with a vast network of "flight strips"—auxiliary landing fields adjacent to public highways—designed to spread available defending planes over all strategic areas.

Lieutenant Colonel Stedman Hanks, of the Army Air Corps, said today.

Surveys of possible sites already are under way by the Air Corps and the Public Roads Administration, Colonel Hanks said in a speech to the Association of Highway Officials of the North Atlantic states.

Capable of handling heavy bombers as well as pursuit craft, the emergency bases will be constructed by the Bureau of Roads with the co-operation of Army engineers and State Highway Departments.

A preliminary appropriation of $10,000,000 has been made available.

Colonel Hanks said the strips will provide "dispersal points for aircraft to alleviate crowding the main air bases and to lessen the risk of large-scale bombing losses" caused by concentration of planes at too few places. It is contemplated to have one for each squadron of 12 to 25 planes.

After the war the network could be used to provide connections for new commercial aviation lines.

The federal highway system, with its rights-of-ways, solves the land problem partly, he added, but federal funds may be used to acquire additional property needed.

Some of the flight strips may be as large as 800 feet wide and 8,000 feet long if the terrain permits.

Highways themselves cannot be used for landings because of the hazards of lines and poles and automobile traffic, Hanks said.

Mundy Probes U. S. Prisoner's Beating Story

$20,000 Damage Suit Is Filed by Logan in Superior Court.

Assistant United States Attorney Ellis Mundy yesterday was pressing his investigation into the alleged beating of Herman Logan, a federal prisoner charged with interstate transport of a stolen automobile, while in the custody of Roy E. House, a professional bondsman, and Bill Mashburn, former policeman and House's associate.

The investigation was ordered Wednesday by United States District Judge E. Marvin Underwood after Logan pointed out House and Mashburn to the judge as the men responsible for his badly injured mouth and bloodstained clothing.

Logan yesterday filed suit for $20,000 damages in Fulton superior court.

In his petition, Logan relates that House was his surety on a $500 bond returnable to the federal court and charges that last Tuesday House and his employee, Mashburn, arrested him at his home, forcibly took him to the police station and lodged him there on the false charge of being "in transit."

Later he charges they forcibly conveyed him to the office of United States Commissioner Meyerhard where House told the commissioner he wished to surrender Logan and be relieved of his bond.

Mundy had Logan brought from Fulton Tower to the old postoffice building and questioned him in detail. Logan insisted several policemen at police headquarters could corroborate his story of being held in the area way by Mashburn while House struck him repeatedly. Another witness was to be Fitzhugh Knox Jr., insurance salesman, who caught Logan just after he escaped from House and Mashburn near the old postoffice.

The bondsman and his aide told Judge Underwood Logan was injured by running into an automobile while trying to escape. The judge, directly condemning mistreatment of prisoners, summoned Mundy and directed a full investigation.

Horse and Wagon Milk Delivery Seen

Horse and wagon delivery of milk in Georgia and throughout the nation in the near future was foreseen yesterday by Charles G. Duncan, director of the State Milk Control Board.

The change over from truck deliveries will be hastened, he said, by a new rationing order providing that dairymen who deliver milk both wholesale and retail cannot purchase tires for their wholesale trucks until the tires of their retail trucks are worn out.

Duncan said one Atlanta dairy already had ordered 20 horses and wagons and another had ordered 10.

Dairymen using horses and wagons, Duncan said, may deliver milk to consumers every day. Motor deliveries in Atlanta and some other Georgia cities are restricted at present to every other day as a tire conservation measure.

Club Plans Circus Matinee For Underprivileged Tots

• • • THE ATLANTA WOMAN'S CLUB thinks of everything! For instance, when the club presents its mammoth circus here the week of March 11-17, the plans will include a special matinee for the underprivileged children of Atlanta. Even though grown-ups enjoy them just as much, perhaps, circuses, of course, were primarily meant for children, and the idea of the matinee proves that those less fortunate come in for the club's consideration just as much as those who can be of benefit to the organization.

The matinee is set for Thursday, March 12, and on that day bright little faces will be scrubbed until they shine to be in readiness when the buses arrive to take them to see the big show at the city auditorium at a quarter past 3. Children who will be guests of the club for this performance will include delegations from Hillside Cottages, Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home, Atlanta Child's Home, Southern Christian Orphans' Home, Aidmore, Elks Home for Crippled Children, and Methodist Children's Home.

And to further prove what a "big heart" the Woman's Club has, the president, Mrs. Howard Pattillo, has arranged for some of the more entertaining of the circus acts to be taken to the Scottish Rite hospital, in order that the little children who are unable to go to the auditorium because of physical handicaps, may not miss the circus entirely. In addition, the Salvation Army will distribute a large number of tickets to other children of the city who would not otherwise be able to attend the circus.

• • • IN AFFECTIONATE memory of William Manley, U. S. Army, who was among the first casualties in the Pearl Harbor disaster, former classmates of the gallant hero at the Junior College of Georgia have organized the William Manley Chapter of the American Junior Red Cross. Incidentally, the institution is the first junior college in the United States to have a Red Cross chapter!

Since the student organization was formed in tribute to a defender of this country, it is entirely apropos that it will stage a talent program on Saturday for the soldiers stationed at Lawson General Hospital. The program will begin at 2:30 o'clock, and will be directed by Eugenia Bridges and Linton Waldrup. Entertainers will include June Hunt and Elaine Cole, dancers; Betty Whitmore and Molly Puckett, vocalists, and Linton Waldrup, who will lead the student band.

• • • RUTH HINMAN CARTER always has an interesting time whenever she visits in New York City, for she has innumerable friends there who enjoy extending hospitality to the attractive Atlanta. She is there now, and this time will remain for several weeks.

Ruth, who is a member of the Atlanta Woman's Press Club, will be one of the guests to luncheon to be given by the New York Woman's Press Club at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

"Women in Defense of Hemisphere Solidarity" will be the theme of the program, which will be broadcast over all the major networks. Mrs. Joseph Goodbar, national president, who is well known in Atlanta, is radio chairman for the New York group, of which Mrs. Amelia Moorfield is president.

Among the prominent speakers who will be heard over the air waves are Mary Winslow, from the office of the co-ordinator of inter-American affairs, in Washington, D. C.; Dr. A. H. Harding, president of the University of Arkansas, and Beatrice Belcourt, public relations director for the Canadian Broadcasting Company.

Among other special guests at the luncheon will be 20 Latin-American visitors.

Flags representing 22 countries of the West Hemisphere have been presented to the club by the Pan-American Society and the president of a national manufacturing company.

• • • THE ROMANTIC interest in many a novel has developed from "love at first sight," when boy meets girl at the rehearsal for a play. A real life counterpart of this age-old plot occurred the other day at one of the rehearsals for "Titian," which is to be presented by the Children's Theater Group of the Junior League at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the East Point city auditorium.

Naturally, the rehearsal progressed under difficulty, for the entire cast was so interested in the romance going on right under their very noses, that they could scarcely keep their minds on the play.

Even the most dyed-in-the-wool cynic couldn't help but notice that the boy and girl in question had fallen madly in love the very minute they were introduced. Especially so when the couple openly held hands the entire afternoon!

The couple was blissfully unaware of the stares and comment they caused. They had eyes and ears only for each other. Besides, the girl is so pretty and adorable and the boy so handsome that they are accustomed to being the centers of attention, anyway.

They are "Bunny" Lawton and "Ester" Robinson, who are old enough to know their own minds and hearts, both having celebrated at least three birthday anniversaries!

It was due to a coincidence (or fate, if you will) that this particular romance had its beginning at the rehearsal. Their mothers, Betty (Mrs. Alex III) Lawton and Ernie (Mrs. English) Robinson, are members of the cast, and brought their youngsters along because the children's nurses had been given the afternoon off.

Betty will be seen this afternoon in the role of Liza Zampanti, wife of the Lord of the Manor, and Ernie will appear as Carlotta, a dancing girl. They also will don their costumes again on next Wednesday afternoon, when "Titian" will have its second public performance at the Couch school.

• • • A LOVELY brunet girl is wearing an exquisite engagement ring, and announcement of her engagement will soon be made by her parents in Atlanta. The wedding takes place soon after the Ides of March.

The pencil of this happy bride-to-be moves just as efficiently, jotting down figures in the big office where she has spent her time since she graduated from Girls' High, but the faint jingle of wedding bells and the hum of the wedding march sweeten her tasks.

HE lives in a near-by city but formerly lived here with his parents. Clues: Both are their respective parents' "only child." She is president of her sorority and he is a member of the Esquire Club.

These young people are keenly interested in church work and it is possible the scene of their marriage will be St. Mark church, where the bride-to-be formerly attended and has a host of friends.

MISS CATHERINE LANE.

Miss Catherine Lane To Marry Lt. William Haskell Jr. Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 26.

Engaging the sincere and cordial interest of a host of friends and relatives throughout the south and east is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson Lane Jr., of this city, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Catherine Garrard Lane, to William Andrew Haskell Jr., lieutenant, United States Army Air Corps. The wedding will be quietly solemnized today in Dallas, Texas.

Miss Lane's mother is the former Miss Marie Ashley, daughter of Mrs. D. C. Ashley and the late Mr. Ashley, of Valdosta, Ga. Walter T. Lane and the late Mrs. Lane, of Valdosta, are the bride-elect's paternal grandparents. Miss Anna Ashley Lane and Walter Lane III are the bride-to-be's sister and brother.

Miss Lane is of the Irish type of beauty, possessing blue eyes and naturally wavy dark brown hair. She has been an admired belle since high school days, which she spent at North Fulton High school in Atlanta. She was a member of the Sigma Delta sorority and Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls. Following her graduation from North Fulton, she attended Smith College in Northampton, Mass., from where she was graduated with the class of 1941.

Lieutenant Haskell is the son of Mrs. William A. Haskell and the late Mr. Haskell, of Newton Centre, Mass. His mother is the former Miss Margaret Barry, daughter of Mrs. John Lincoln Barry and the late Mr. Barry. Miss Margaret Haskell is the groom-elect's sister.

Lieutenant Haskell attended Lennox School in Lennox, Mass., and later graduated from Trinity College, where he was president of Psi Upsilon fraternity. Since his recent graduation from Kelly Field in San Antonio, Texas, he has been stationed at Perrin Field, in Sherman, Texas.

Radio Guild Party For Miss Osborne

A delightful social affair will be the luncheon at which the Women's Radio Guild entertains today at 1 o'clock at the Capital City Club complimenting Miss Elizabeth MacDonald Osborne, distinguished authority on personal development.

Miss Osborne has for 12 years lectured at universities and private schools, and this week delivers a series of lectures to the student body of Agnes Scott College.

She has done outstanding work in her field on radio broadcasts, and it is quite fitting that the Radio Guild will thus honor her.

Covers will be laid for members of the guild. Reservations may be made by phoning Mrs. Robert H. Jones Jr., guild president, at HE. 5590.

Colonial Club To Meet Today.

Mrs. Carlton Mobley, assisted by Mrs. Gordon Evans, will entertain the Colonial Garden Club at luncheon at the home of the former, 41 Palisades road, today preceding the regular February meeting at 12:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Harold Kirkpatrick, program chairman, will speak on "Pruning." Mrs. John F. Lyle, president, will preside, and Mrs. Curtis W. Lehner will read the calendar for the month.

Mrs. Edith Harrison Henderson, well-known landscape architect, spoke to the club members at a recent special meeting at the home of Mrs. William Thompson on Peachtree road, at which time sewing was done for the Red Cross. Representing the Young Matrons' Circle for Tallulah Falls school, Mrs. Henderson extended an invitation to participate in the table-setting contest to be featured in the grand jubilee in April.

Zeta Beta Chi Officers Installed.

They are: Misses Sally Evans, president; Anne Sanders, vice president; Betty Sears, second vice president; Reba Jay, recording secretary; Betty Holliman, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth Felker, treasurer; Agnes Owen, chaplain, and Mary Tumlin, historian.

Among those present were Misses Carolyn Suddath, president of the city council; Frances Poole, retiring vice president, and Misses Dorothy Morton and Mildred Robinson, who were in charge of the dinner following the installation.

Miss Putnal Wed To Hal Spencer At Quiet Rites

Coming as a surprise to their legion of friends is the announcement made today of the marriage of Miss Emma Glyn Putnal, daughter of Mrs. J. T. Putnal, to Harold L. Spencer, of this city, formerly of Philadelphia, Pa.

William Stoddard was the groom's best man.

Mrs. Mary Browner was the bride's matron of honor, wearing a plaid suit, in which yellow predominated, with black accessories and gardenias.

Mr. Spencer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert James Spencer, of Philadelphia, and has resided in Atlanta for the past two years.

Mr. and Mrs. William W. Edwards Jr. announce the birth of a daughter, Sheila Lynne, on February 23 at Georgia Baptist hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis L. Cone announce the birth of a daughter on February 22 at Piedmont hospital, whom they have named Myra Ann. Mrs. Cone is the former Miss Helen Abelson.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph G. Schmitt announce the birth of a daughter, Wilma Dona, on February 22, at St. Joseph's Infirmary. Mrs. Schmitt is the former Miss Wilma Barrow.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wilson Page, of Hartwell, announce the birth of a son, George Wilson Jr., on February 21 at Anderson County hospital, Anderson, S. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Schler announce the birth of a son on February 7 at Georgia Baptist hospital, whom they have named Raymond Gordon Jr. Mrs. Schler is the former Miss Margaret Bradford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bradford, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mitchell announce the birth of a son, William Thomas, on February 21 at St. Joseph's infirmary. Mrs. Mitchell is the former Miss Frances McMichael.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gentry Hughes announce the birth of a son, John Archer, February 17, at Emory hospital. Mrs. Hughes is the former Miss Marjorie Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Johnston announce the birth of a daughter, Linda Marie, at St. Joseph's infirmary on February 17. Mrs. Lewis Johnston is the former Miss Hazel Moss, of Decatur.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherrod R. Smith announce the birth of a daughter, Sherrolyn Waldine, on February 20 at Emory hospital. Mrs. Smith is the former Miss Jackie Weaver, daughter of Captain and Mrs. W. M. Weaver. The baby's paternal grandparents are S. R. Smith and the late Mrs. Smith. The maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Minnie L. Kreis.

Miss Jeanne Redwine Weds Walter Rountree Hunter Jr.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., Feb. 26. Engaging the cordial interest of a host of friends throughout the state is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Hill Parks Redwine of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jeanne Wilson Redwine, to Walter Rountree Hunter Jr., of Quitman, Ga., and Biloxi, Miss. The ceremony was quietly solemnized in Quitman on Saturday, February 21.

The lovely young bride, a charming representative of one of this section's most prominent families, is the second daughter of her parents, and the sister of Mrs. Wilbur Rountree, of Thomaston, and of Hill Reagan Redwine, a student at Riverside Military Academy.

Mrs. Hunter received her early education in the Fayetteville schools, and graduated from Agnes Scott College in 1939. Since finishing school, she has been a popular and admired member of the younger social set here.

Mr. Hunter is the son of Walter Rountree Hunter Sr., well-known citizen of Quitman, and the late Mrs. Emmie McCall Hunter, formerly of Hawkinsville. He is a student at the University of Georgia; Mrs. Walter Stapleton, of Savannah, and Sam Hunter, a student at Emory University.

Miss Reynolds Weds Mr. Tipton

The marriage of Miss Betty Reynolds and James Harrison Tipton Jr. took place yesterday afternoon in the little chapel of the Glenn Memorial church in the presence of only members of the two families and a limited number of friends. Dr. D. P. McGeech, of Decatur, officiated.

The bride was becomingly gowned in a smart model of honey-colored crepe trimmed in narrow pleating. Her accessories were light brown, and her flowers were bronze orchids.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. James Henley Crosland entertained at a small reception at their home on Lakeview avenue for the bridal couple. They left for a wedding trip to an undisclosed destination and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta, where the groom is connected with Georgia Tech.

Mrs. Tipton, the bride, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. David Esten Reynolds, of Forest Park, Ga. She attended West Georgia College and later was graduated from the University of Georgia.

Mr. Tipton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tipton Sr., of Sylvestor. He was graduated from the Georgia School of Technology and since that time has been associated with the school.

Miss Cheatham Becomes Bride

Scores of Atlanta friends of Miss Catherine Cheatham, of Miami, will learn with interest today of her marriage on Sunday in Coronado, Cal., to Ensign Franklin Edward Standing, U. S. N. R., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Standing, of Wichita Falls, Texas.

The bride has visited in Atlanta frequently as the guest of Mrs. Bryan Willingham, the former Miss Helen Aycock, and attended many of the debutante festivities here with the 1937-38 Debutante Club. She is a member of the Miami Junior League and the Spinners' Club, and was graduated from Ward Belmont College in Nashville, Tenn.

The ceremony took place at 5:30 o'clock in Coronado Presbyterian church, the bride having joined the groom on the west coast because his duties with the U. S. Navy prevented his leaving his station.

Attended by Miss Sibelle Reid, of Miami, who accompanied her to California last week, the bride wore a sky blue ensemble featuring a brief fitted jacket and accented by blue snakeskin accessories. Her matching hat was trimmed with a veil, and she wore white orchids. A charming likeness of Mrs. Standing appeared in Sunday's edition of The Miami Herald.

The maid of honor, Miss Reid, wore navy, accented by a white lace collar and a shoulder cluster of white camellias. Ensign Standing's best man was Ensign Burt Weldon Sperry, U. S. N. R. Ensign and Mrs. Standing have established residence at the Coronado in Baltimore.

Paper Sale Planned.

North Fulton P-T. A. will sponsor a paper sale Tuesday. The proceeds will be used for the musical department of the school. Boys will be in front of the school to unload the cars until 10 o'clock.

MR. AND MRS. B. EARLE YANCEY JR.

Miss Johnson and Mr. Yancey Speak Vows at Chapel Rites

Miss Myrtice Claire Johnson became the lovely bride of B. Earle Yancey Jr. at a beautiful ceremony taking place yesterday in the little chapel at the Glenn Memorial church. Dr. Nathaniel Long read the marriage service at 1 o'clock in the presence of a representative gathering of relatives and close friends of the couple.

Cathedral candelabra holding lighted white tapers were interspersed with graceful arrangements of white snapdragons and gladioli placed against a background of ferns to form the altar decorations. A musical program was presented by Richard Felder, organist.

John Dennis Johnson gave his pretty young daughter in marriage and Jack Yancey acted as best man for his brother. John McClelland, Arthur McCann, Candler Jones and James Porter Watkins, of Albany, were the ushers.

Mrs. Candler Jones was her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. She was becomingly attired in a street-length model of navy blue sheer. Her pillbox hat was fashioned of French blue and orchid petals and her flowers were a shoulder cluster of orchids. The bride was radiantly lovely in a suit of powder blue botany wool, with which she wore a matching hat and accessories of blond alligator. A shoulder spray of white phalanopsis orchids and valley lilies completed the ensemble.

Mrs. Johnson chose for her daughter's wedding a model of blue sheer with which she wore midnight blue accessories. Mrs. Earle Yancey Sr., mother of the groom, wore a costume of black sheer trimmed in white and her accessories were black. Both wore shoulder bouquets of orchids.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a breakfast at the Druid Hills Golf Club. A profusion of white snapdragons and gladioli formed the floral decorations, similar flowers adorning the bride's table.

The young couple will make their home in Albany, Ga., where they will be prominent and popular additions to the younger married set.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the nuptials were Miss Myrtice Terrell, of Columbus; Mr. and Mrs. Howell Erwin, of Athens; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Price, of Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. James Watkins, of Decatur; and Mrs. John Keeton, all of Albany.

Miss Dorothy Dent Is Central Figure

Concluding the interesting series of social affairs, which has complimented Miss Dorothy Dent prior to her marriage to Clark Hudson, which takes place on Saturday, was the luncheon given by Miss Dent's sister, Mrs. Robert Graham, yesterday at the Biltmore hotel.

Covers were laid for Mesdames William P. Leonard, Robert Hamilton, George Fritts, Gordon Catts, M. L. Hudson, Thomas Meighan, Claude G. Smith, of Marietta, and Mesdames Margaret Knott, of Marietta; Julian Boykin, Eleanor Fike, Louise Morrow, of Greenville, Miss., and Margaret Lee Colbert.

A charming arrangement of roses, iris and sweetpeas in the Dresden tints adorned the center of the luncheon table.

Food Beats Pills As a Source Of Vitamins

By Ida Jean Kain.

In Hollywood they've quit taking headache tablets and are concentrating on vitamin pills. When I met Walt Disney not long ago—we happened to be passing through the Atlanta airport at the same time—he told me that everybody in pictures was going in for vitamins and that he was taking the vitamin B complex. "And," he added thoughtfully, "at $10 a bottle."

That price is probably about right for Hollywood, where everything is on a colossal scale. But, luckily for the rest of us, vitamins don't have to come that high. The scientists agree that most of use can and should get them in adequate amounts from the grocery store. Not only are they cheaper in food, but the food sources furnish many other protective essentials which are needed to balance the diet.

This is not intended to detract from the value of the concentrates. There are many conditions in which they are life-savers. The accepted standard allowances which can be supplied in food apply to the person in normal health. But when massive doses are needed, we turn to the concentrates. Post-operative convalescents and patients treated for pellagra, alcoholism and neuritis respond miraculously to the administration of huge doses of the vitamins.

There are less dramatic instances in which their use is just as effective. For example, the thin girl whose appetite lags can build up a normal appreciation of food with the aid of vitamin B. She can give her appetite a good boost right at the start of her weight-gaining program by taking some form of the B complex. This may be a capsule, a pill, or a liquid. But later on she can include adequate vitamin B in whole grain bread, wheat germ, and various other foods which comprise the balanced menu.

In winter the sunshine is not strong enough to manufacture vitamin D in the skin and children need a synthetic form of D, such as cod liver oil.

The most important thing for the average person is to know the foods that are the rich sources of all the vitamins and the amounts needed daily to make the diet adequate.

Slender Lines in a Spring Frock

By Lillian Mae.

Let Lillian Mae teach you some "figure tricks" with Pattern 4939! It has bias yokes and bias side skirt sections pointed-in toward the waist... the result is your shoulder and hip girth is minimized. Checked fabric and rick-rack will accentuate the effect; three-quarter or long sleeves are optional. Do stitch this mode up for immediate wear with the Sewing Instructor's aid... do make both an "A. M." and "P. M." version!

Pattern 4939 is available in women's sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4 yards 39-inch fabric. Send 15 cents (plus 1 cent to cover cost of mailing) for this Lillian Mae pattern. Do not send stamps. Write plainly size, name, address and style number. Just 10 cents more brings our Spring Pattern Book, brimful of original, smart styles that are easy for even beginners to make. Dressy and tailored wear; smart fashions for morning, noon and night.

Public Gets a Chance to Pick Unknowns With Star Possibilities

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—(INS) The dramatic story of the late Homer Lea, the hunchback who was denied entrance into West Point because of his affliction, is attracting the attention of several movie companies. Lea, who always wanted to be a soldier, went to China and lived there for many years. He wrote two brilliant books, "Valor of Ignorance" and "The Day of Saxon," which predicted the terrifying days in which we are now living. Neither America nor England paid attention to his books, but they were carefully studied in Japan and Germany.

Marshall Stimson, Los Angeles attorney and a school friend of Lea's, has written the story of the hunchback's life. Even before the serial started in the Herald-Express, there was talk that various directors were trying to buy it. Lea even outlined how the Japs would attack this coast, saying it would be a queer movement starting with Alaska on one end and Southern California on the other, and Seattle would be one of the first points of attack.

Gals who secretly think they could out-act Bette Davis, outlook Lana Turner and out-omph Ann Sheridan if they only had the chance will get a chance to prove it in a series of shorts which Herman Wohl will produce for Chadwick studios. Wohl's idea is to take a pretty girl and put her through a screen test, which will be photographed. Then the paying customers will be given cards as you leave the theater asking you to vote on whether the girl has possibilities or not. The series is to be called "Pick Your Star." The first two unknowns selected are Robert Montane and Julia Hopkins.

On the Warner lot, quietly taking a test, is Rosemary La Plante, who made the headlines last year when she was crowned Miss America of 1941. At the time Rosemary was so widely publicized there was much talk she would be brought to Hollywood and tested. But nothing happened. Now she is here and being given an extensive test and if she photographs as well as she looks you may expect to see her in "The Gibson Girl" movie, which will be made some time this coming year. Jean Negulesco is personally supervising her tests.

"Stage Coach" was the best western thriller made in years. People loved it. Now M.-G.-M. is about to start "Apache Trail," by Ernest Haycox, author of "Stage Coach," and it's another thriller. William Lundigan, the lad who was on the Warner lot for so long without having any outstanding roles, has the lead, and Donna Reed, one of the younger players, will play the Spanish senorita. This casting is proof of two things. M.-G.-M. wants to give the patrons plenty of good old-fashioned western drama and the younger generation will get a chance. I hear, through the grapevine route, there are a number of important contracts held by some of the old-time favorites that will not be renewed.

MY DAY: A Shopping Trip For Spring Clothes

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday.—I had a busy day in New York City yesterday. First I spent an hour with a friend who has not been very well, and then I ordered some necessary spring clothes, though I must say the weather did not seem very spring-like. It was just about as cold and windy as it could possibly be, but I have to look ahead and be prepared for spring in Washington, which comes suddenly.

At 12:30 Mrs. Vanderbilt Webb and Mrs. Noyes came to see me and then I went to the Cosmopolitan Club to speak at the members' lunch. I was glad to have a chance to explain what my successors in the Office of Civilian Defense are doing.

An hour or so at home, and then I started for Philadelphia. It was pleasant to have a little time for uninterrupted reading on the train, and then to be greeted by Judge and Mrs. Curtis Bok. They are the kindest hosts and took me at once to Judge Bok's mother's house, where I dined for dinner. After this we all went to the performance given by the Philadelphia Opera Company at the Academy of Music. The building is one of the most delightful in which to hear music.

This is a young opera company and the orchestra and the singers are a most refreshing group. Their performance, given in English, was full of life. I discovered for the first time that Mozart's "Così fan tutte" is really a comic opera, perhaps not quite Gilbert and Sullivan, but certainly full of amusing by-play. The audience, as well as the actors, seemed to me remarkably young. Service men and students were all about us. Many of them, of course, probably grew to love music through the youth concerts which Dr. Stowkowski gave, and which were always popular.

The young manager of the opera company, Mr. David Hocker, and all the people who work on the mechanics of this performance, are so enthusiastic that I feel it must eventually be a real financial as well as an artistic success.

I caught an 11:43 train to Washington. It was an unbelievably long train, and being in the car at the end, we were almost in Washington before any heat reached my compartment. In spite of a certain amount of delay, I liked the trip and finished a book which I have enjoyed more than I can say. The characters in Ellen Chase's "Windswept" accept life as it is, its sorrow and its joy, so completely, and live it without resentment. They make friends alike with joy and pain. This is a novel which I think will be a help to many of us at the present time.

Grin and Bear It

By Lichty Filipinos

Remember Past Heroes

By Damon Runyon

The spirit of Jose Rizal has risen again among the Filipinos.

He was a gallant man who died for freedom of his people. He was as great a warrior against tyranny as any man who ever lived, though he fought in a region so remote in his day that he is little known to the rest of the world.

His soul is reflected in a secret society that has sprung up on Luzon to foster civilian resistance against the Japs in the occupied regions of the Philippines. The society, as revealed in a war communique from Washington based on a report from General Douglas MacArthur is known as "FFF," or "Fighters For Freedom."

"The spirit of the liberty-loving Filipinos remains undaunted."

He was of Chinese and Filipino parents—a mestizo—of brilliant mind. He was a good writer and a stirring speaker. Few Filipinos had ever visited the outside world and known nothing of the conditions elsewhere until the early '70s when some went to Spain and other countries to study. The Spanish rule over the islands was becoming more and more onerous to the people and the young Filipinos learned of the thing called liberty and coveted it for the folks at home.

In 1872, the garrison at Cavite arsenal of several hundred native soldiers revolted and killed their officers, crying out for independence, and there was another big demonstration in Manila. The outbreak was soon put down, some of the leaders were executed and many imprisoned.

The seed had been sown. In 1898, a man named Graciano Lopez Jaena started a paper in Barcelona devoted to the cause of the Filipinos and demanding reforms in religious and governmental affairs. Rizal, then in Spain, became a contributor and one of the leaders of the "Young Filipino Party."

He founded "Liga Filipina" at Hong Kong in 1891 and a branch of that organization in Manila in 1892.

He had come to high stature among his people, and easily foremost among those campaigning against the iniquities of the Spanish administration of his country. In 1896 he was arrested at Barcelona and taken to Manila and given a money trial. He was convicted and executed on December 30, 1896, and millions of Filipinos mourned his death.

In August of that year, a revolution had broken out, again centering at Cavite and Aguinaldo came into notice. Spain hurried over reinforcements for the troops already on Luzon, which included a few loyal native regiments, until she had an army of nearly 30,000. The revolt was suppressed in less than two months, but it broke again when Rizal was put to death. Aguinaldo finally made a brief peace in 1897, going to Hong Kong but returning to become President of a provisional Filipino Republic at the outbreak of the Spanish-American War.

Lenten Meals

From Ash Wednesday, February 18, to Easter is Lent, and Wednesdays and Fridays are meatless days for those who observe the Lenten season. Meals for these days are something of a problem, but a problem not at all difficult if a bit of planning is done. Beans, cheese, eggs and all sea foods are excellent substitutes for meat, and meals can be built around them which are as interesting, satisfying, and nutritionally sound as any other. Samples of balanced meatless meals, are these:

LUNCHEONS.

Salmon Bisque
Bean and Asparagus Salad
Cheese Biscuits, Preserves
Coffee or Tea

DINNERS.

Tomato Juice
Crabmeat Salad
Bran Muffins, Butter
Fruit Pudding
Tea or Coffee

LUNCHEONS.

Baked Stuffed Fish
Baked Squash, Steamed Greens
Fruit Salad
Tea, Coffee or Milk

DINNERS.

Sardine and Tomato Appetizer
Casserole of Escalloped Oysters and Shrimp
Tossed Salad Bowl
Baked Pears or Apples

Following are recipes for your "Lenten meals" file:

Whole Fish Stuffed and Baked.

3-pound fish
Salt

1-2 cup butter or margarine
1-2 cup onion, chopped
1 cup celery, diced
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper

1-4 cup chopped parsley
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Dress fish, removing head and backbone if desired. Rub with salt inside and out. Melt the 1-2 cup butter in a large frying pan, add onion and celery, and simmer 5 minutes. Add bread crumbs, salt, pepper and parsley and mix until all crumbs are coated with butter. Remove from heat and stuff fish. Close opening with toothpicks or skewers. Place on greased baking pan and bake in moderate oven, 375 degrees, about 45 minutes. Remove carefully to hot platter, garnish with parsley, watercress, lemon wedges or broiled tomato slices. Serve with lemon-butter sauce. Serves 6.

Fish Flake and Vegetable Casserole.

Mix 1 cup cooked or canned peas, 1 cup cooked celery, 1 cup fine noodles, cooked in salted water until tender; 1 teaspoon chopped onion, salt and pepper to season, and 1 cup diced, cooked or canned carrots. Put half the mixture in a greased baking dish, cover with 1-2 cups flaked fish, add the rest of the vegetables and pour 2 cups white sauce over the top. Sprinkle 1-2 cup fine bread crumbs mixed with 2 tablespoons grated cheese over the sauce and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for 30 to 40 minutes, or until bubbling and slightly brown on top. Serve very hot.

Escalloped Oysters and Shrimp.

For 6 servings use 1 can wet pack shrimp and 1-2 dozen medium-sized oysters or 2 dozen small ones. Roll soda crackers to make 2 cups fine crumbs and mix them with 2 cups coarse, soft bread crumbs, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup melted butter or margarine and 1-4 cup minced parsley. Drain and clean the shrimp. Pick over the oysters to remove bits of shell. Put one-third of the crumb mixture in a greased baking dish, add half the shrimp and half the oysters, and sprinkle lightly with celery salt and paprika. Cover with a layer of crumbs, the rest of the fish and then the final layer of crumbs. Mix the oyster juice with enough milk to make 2 cups. Pour this over the mixture, cover and bake in a moderate oven—375 degrees—for 20 minutes. Remove the cover, increase the heat to 440 degrees and continue baking just long enough to brown the top. Serve very hot.

Crabmeat and Macaroni Salad.

1-1/2 cups flaked crabmeat
1 cup cooked elbow macaroni
1-2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 teaspoons chopped sweet pickles
Salt

Few drops of tabasco
Have all ingredients chilled, then toss lightly together with enough French dressing or mayonnaise to blend.

Salmon Bisque.

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1-8 teaspoon pepper
1-4 teaspoon celery salt
3 cups milk
1 cup stock
1-1/2 cups flaked salmon, cooked or canned

1 medium onion, sliced
1-2 cup top milk or light cream
Parsley for garnish

Melt butter, stir in flour, salt, pepper and celery salt. When well blended, slowly add the milk and the stock; chicken stock is preferable, but stock may be made by dissolving 1 bouillon cube in 1 cup boiling water. Stir constantly over low heat until mixture boils. Add flaked salmon, onion and cook over low heat until fish is tender, about 10 minutes. Force mixture through a sieve and add cream. Add extra seasoning if desired. Reheat and serve, garnishing with minced parsley. Serves 6.

How To Clarify Fat

For the first time in their experience American housewives are considering ways to save and utilize the fat which accumulates from cooking. To waste fat in peacetime has never mattered much, but waste of fat in wartime is unthinkable.

Thrifty homemakers of grandmother's day used to clarify fat regularly whenever an empty lard pail reserved for this purpose filled with the drippings from bacon, ham, sausage, roasted meats and poultry, not to mention fat used in deep frying.

There are three possible methods for clarifying, but in each, the point to remember is that the fat must be kept at a controlled low temperature to prevent scorching and further discoloration.

1. Transfer two cups of mixed drippings to a heavy well-balanced kettle which won't tilt and melt fat slowly. Add slices of unpeeled potato; turn flame higher so fat will bubble. When potato slices are well-browned, strain hot fat into a container through several thicknesses of cheesecloth held in a wire strainer. The potato slices absorb flavors and odors, help to clarify and purify fat. When fat is cold and hard cut off bottom layer of sediment and discard. Store clear fat in refrigerator.

2. Mixed drippings light in color may be clarified by transferring to a kettle and pouring sufficient boiling water over it to melt it. Place kettle over a top burner and turn heat to a point where gentle boiling is maintained. Boil fat thoroughly, then strain. When cold, lift off top cake of fat from liquid containing sediment in bottom of container.

3. A combination of the above

Salads Give Zest, Color, Health

The sunny, bright part of a meal is the salad. In these combinations of meat, vegetables or fruit the housewife has opportunity to get the unbeatable combination of zest and color. For meal interest, for prettiness, and for health's sake do not allow your salads to get into a rut. In summer, when fruits, berries, greens and vegetables are abundant and varied, we seldom run out of salad ideas, but in winter we're likely to serve slaw, head lettuce or Waldorf salad week in and week out. Even in winter there are lots of salad ingredients; here are some ideas:

Orange-Prune-Cheese Salad.

4 or 5 oranges, peeled and sliced
Letuce or watercress
20 Prunes, cooked and stoned
1 cup cottage cheese

Arrange five orange slices in circle on salad plate, covered with greens. Center each slice with a prune stuffed with cottage cheese. Or prunes may be stuffed with cream cheese or peanut butter moistened with orange juice. Serve with any desired dressing. Serves four.

Frozen Fruit Salad.

(A party salad serving 8.)
2 3-ounce packages cream cheese
1-3 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup orange sections

methods—adding potato slices to fat melted in boiling water — seems to produce softer fat, lighter in color, which may be more useful to combine with other shortening.

It is economical to save excess suet and fat trimmed from steak, chops, ham, stripped from chicken and poultry. Put this fat through a grinder or chop in a wooden bowl. Then try it out in a skillet over a low flame. The bits of fat will soon melt and can be strained off for storing in the refrigerator.

1-2 cup stoned cherries

2 teaspoons candied ginger
1-2 cup toasted unsalted nuts
1 cup whipping cream

Mix cheese, mayonnaise and lemon juice until smooth. Cut fruit, ginger and nuts into small pieces and add to cheese mixture. Fold in whipped cream. Turn into freezing tray and freeze two or three hours or until firm. Serve on salad greens with lemon or cream mayonnaise.

In these days, when it not only is noble, but the part of wisdom, to teach love for country and devotion to duty, a child's party may have the novel airplane fruit salad for refreshments. "Keep 'em flying" may be the name for this salad, which all children, especially small boys, will love. Here's how to make the airplane salad:

Winter Salad Bowl.

Line a wooden salad bowl with salad greens. Fill with ripe Bosc or Anjou pears cut into wedges. Serve with mayonnaise, in which chutney to taste has been blended.

Airplane Salad.

Dip a whole peeled banana in lemon juice to prevent discoloration and place on a bed of crisp salad greens. Arrange two whole slices and one half slice of orange on either side of the banana to make the wings. Two whole peanuts represent the propeller, while two halves of a vanilla wafer are pressed into the other end to make the rudder.

Tim smiles in anticipation of a treat. His bowl is filled with a new cereal, made of oats. His mother is slicing a fresh pear over it for added appeal. Fresh pears and apples make pretty salads if cored and sliced in wedges with the little gadget seen at left. (Call Sally Saver, WA. 6565, if you want to know where to get one.) Tim is the five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Singleton.

ATLANTA, GA., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1942.

An Airplane Salad

1. Do you shop personally, checking weights and inspecting fresh foods? Unless you do you are not getting the best values for your food money. Yes—No—
2. Do you inspect your refrigerator every morning before planning the day's menu, with an eye to utilizing every left-over? That bit of beef stew with the addition of a fresh kidney would make a delicious low-cost beef and kidney pie, you know. Yes—No—
3. Do you throw away the outer green lettuce leaves or celery stalks? You are wasting food and minerals, for they should be used in soups, sauces or gravy. Yes—No—
4. Do you heat a teakettle full of water and then use about half of it? Yes—No—
5. Do you immediately lower the heat as soon as things have come to a boil? If you don't you're wasting fuel. Yes—No—
6. Do you pay an additional price just because you like the looks of white eggs better than brown? There's absolutely no difference in taste or food value. Yes—No—
7. Do you let your children waste food by permitting them to help themselves to portions they can't eat? Do you let them take excess amounts of syrup, sugar, honey or jam? Yes—No—
8. Do you throw away sour milk or cream? Or do you use it in cooking or to turn into cottage cheese? Yes—No—
9. Do you save bacon fat, chicken fat and suet to be used as shortening? If you don't you are foregoing fine flavors and wasting valuable food. Yes—No—
10. Do you throw away dry pieces of bread and cake and portions of vegetables too small for another meal? Utilize these. Don't throw even one bite of food away. Remember—Food Will Win the War! Grade yourself 10 points for each correct answer. 1, yes; 2, yes; 3, no; 4, no; 5, yes; 6, no; 7, no; 8, no; 9, yes; 10, no. A score of less than 100 will not pass you in this test.

Ideas From a Cook's Notebook

Plain Omelet.

6 eggs.
3-4 teaspoon salt.
1-8 teaspoon pepper.
6 tablespoons milk.
3 tablespoons butter.

Beat eggs well, then beat in seasonings and milk. Melt butter in heavy fry pan, and when hot pour in egg mixture. Cook over medium heat, lifting the edges as they cook, allowing the uncooked mixture to run under and around the cooked portion. When bottom is browned, fold in half or roll, and slip on a piping hot platter. Garnish with parsley. Six servings.

Bacon Omelet: Crumble 3 strips of cooked bacon. Sprinkle over omelet just before folding. For ham omelet, add 1/4 cup chopped ham to beaten eggs.

Fresh Vegetable Omelet: Add 1-2 cup cooked green peas or other vegetables to beaten eggs. A few tips of asparagus, well-drained, may be placed in omelet before folding.

Cheese Omelet: Add 1-2 to 3-4 cup grated American or Parmesan cheese to beaten eggs or sprinkle cooked omelet with cheese before folding.

Graham Cracker Fig Cake.

1 cup dried figs
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup sour milk
1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
4 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Boil figs 15 minutes, drain, clip stem ends and cut figs into small pieces. Cream shortening with sugar, add beaten egg yolks and sour milk. Combine with cracker crumbs, flour sifted with salt, soda, baking powder and spice. Add figs and stir to blend. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into two greased 8-inch layer cake pans. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Put layers together with:

Enemy Aliens Arrested

In Charleston Area
CHARLESTON, S. C., Feb. 26.—Six enemy aliens were arrested and a quantity of arms and other equipment seized in raids by federal agents and local police and naval intelligence officers in Charleston and vicinity, J. R. Ruggles, of the Savannah (Ga.)

office of the FBI, announced last night.
Arrested as enemy aliens, said Ruggles, were four Germans and two Italians. Among the equipment seized were rifles, ammunition, shotguns, pistols, cameras, binoculars and short wave receiving sets.
Ruggles said names and addresses of those arrested would not be released.

Bicycle Patrol Joins

Floyd Defense Corps
Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
ROME, Ga., Feb. 26.—Many groups have registered at Floyd county's Civilian Defense headquarters, but Chairman Henry Pyne was pleasantly surprised when the newest outfit, the Lin-dale Boy Scout bicycle patrol, signed up in a body.

First organization of its type in the county, the patrol includes Edwin McCoy, Marshall Toole, Charles Mathis, Billy Bulkcom, Clarence Walker, Kirby Reynolds, Bobby Day, Dudley Sheppard and Albert Smith.
They will serve as messengers.

'Sighted Sub, Sank Same' Story Is Told

Flyer's Bombs Straddled
Periscope; Oil Soon Covered Area.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The story of how one submarine was sunk in the Atlantic battle area was reported today by the Navy Department following yesterday's disclosure by Secretary Knox that at least three enemy submarines had been sunk and four damaged in 56 attacks in the past two months.

The Navy said the successful attack was carried out by Donald Francis Mason, aviation machinist's mate, first class, who, after he had blasted the submarine with depth bombs, reported to his base, "sighted sub, sank same."

The message by which he first announced his action had been given out previously, but today's was the first detail and along with this it was announced that Mason had been advanced to the rating of aviation chief machinist's mate and commended for meritorious conduct in action.

The commendation told this story of Mason's attack:
"While piloting a plane on patrol duty, (he) observed the wake of a submarine proceeding submerged at periscope depth. He immediately turned, dove to a low altitude, and dropped two depth bombs, which straddled the periscope. The conning tower of the submarine rose clear of the water for a short period and then sank again. A large patch of oil soon covered the area. This attack was adjudged successful."

"In this attack Mason demonstrated a high degree of coolness, alertness, initiative and training, and excellent flying ability."

Mason, 28, has been in the Navy since 1935 and became a pilot in 1938. His home address was given as 623 Fourth street, northwest, Rochester, Minn., and his next of kin was listed as his wife, Mrs. Anna Maria Mason, 407 Fourth street, Alameda, Cal.

U. S. Is Seeking Motor Instructors

Motor transport instructors for the Quartermaster Corps, to receive pay ranging from $2,600 to $4,800 a year, are wanted by the United States Civil Service Commission, it was announced yesterday by O. E. Myers, fifth district manager.

All information will be supplied by Myers.
Instructors, he said, will conduct classes in automotive parts, automotive electrical and carburetion theory, body finishing and upholstery, machine instruction, tire recapping and sectional repair, fender, body and radiator; Diesel engines, internal combustion engines, motorcycles, blacksmithing and welding.

Nelson To Speak To Nation Monday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Donald M. Nelson will broadcast to the nation Monday night and, a spokesman said, in this and three subsequent radio talks, the war production chief will "hand out assignments to all classes of citizens, telling them what they can do to help win the war."
"Mr. Nelson will spend most of the time examining the allegation that there is too much smugness and complacency in the country, and that people are confused about what they can do to help the war effort," the spokesman said.
The first address (9:45 to 10 p. m., E. W. T. Blue Network) will be directed primarily to management and workers in the war industry, it was announced, and the later talks will be aimed at other segments of the population.

U. S. Gives State Venereal Fund

Georgia's Department of Public Health has been allotted $115,000 by the federal government to aid in combating venereal diseases, Dr. T. F. Abernethy, health director, announced yesterday.
He explained the state was required to spend the fund before July 1 if it wished to receive similar allotments in the future.
Although details of how Georgia will spend the money have not been worked out, in general, the program will include expansion of clinical facilities and of educational efforts to prevent the spread of the diseases. Georgia already gets an allotment of approximately $125,000 a year for its venereal disease program.

Louise Faver Wins Office at G.S.C.W.

Louise Faver, of Atlanta, yesterday was selected president of the College Government Association by the student body of Georgia State College for Women. She succeeds Martha Daniel, also of Atlanta.
Edythe Trappell, of Columbus, was elected president of the "Y" Association and Olymp. Diaz, of Atlanta, president of the Recreation Association.
Other officers named include: College Government—Juanita Pitts, Cordele, vice president; Elizabeth Horne, Milledgeville, recording secretary; Ann Lunsford, Atlanta, treasurer; and Norma Darden, Albany, chairman of judiciary.
The "Y" Association—Ethel Hembree, Atlanta, first vice president; Virginia Parker, Atlanta, second vice president; Myra Scott, Augusta, secretary; and June Ragsdale, Albany, treasurer.

Waldo Cape, 48, Of Pickens, Is Shot to Death

Ed Barnes Placed in Jail, Charged With Shooting.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
JASPER, Ga., Feb. 26.—Waldo Cape, 48, Pickens county farmer, was shot and instantly killed this morning at Hinton, near his home eight miles from Jasper, and Ed Barnes, 44, a neighbor, and former county policeman, is in jail here charged with the slaying.
Cape is the son of the late Lee Cape, who was brutally killed here in 1927.

He is survived by his wife; four daughters and two sons, including one son a week old and named for General Douglas MacArthur.

Barnes by Cape's wife, and Barnes surrendered to Sheriff A. M. Poole.
No date has been set for the preliminary hearing.

OneGeneration Said Doomed By Starvation

Germany Lives Well on Pillage From Conquered Lands.

LONDON, Friday, Feb. 27.—(P). Germany's organized "pillage masquerading as purchase" in occupied Europe has reached such proportions that 500,000 Greeks probably will die from hunger this winter, "and one whole generation appears to be already doomed," the inter-Allied information committee said today.

The food situation in Belgium was described as "simply terrifying." Poland also is starving, and "every day trains loaded with food go to Germany," from France, where "the whole race is in danger," the 6,500-word report charged.

The committee, which represents every Allied nation in London, said its information was obtained from three sources: German official pronouncements, articles and news in the German-controlled press, and evidence obtained from people escaping from the occupied countries who, themselves, experienced Nazi-dictated privations.

Reich Lives Well. The German army and people in the Reich are living well, in some cases, better than at pre-war levels, while their subject nations are starving, the report said in charting the ration schemes in existence.

Further, "the German occupying troops' officials are so liberally supplied with food that in some countries they are the principal suppliers of black markets"—the illegal food centers where fantastic prices are paid for the supplies which only a few can afford to buy.

Here is the picture drawn by the committee:

There are "official rations" in all countries, yet often the food simply is not available to those holding the ration tickets.

Greece Worst Hit. "It is typical that the official rations are at their worst in the case of Greece where the Germans have little to gain by keeping the population comparatively calm and contented, and appear most nearly adequate in the case of Czechoslovakia, where many of Germany's vital war industries are located, and where excessive malnutrition could easily cripple the German war program."

A League of Nations' report showed that the adult male not engaged in manual work requires an allowance of food yielding 2,400 calories, yet most persons are receiving far below that figure, and the work day has been lengthened.

Dogs, Cats, Luxuries. "Is it any wonder that in one place dog meat costs eight shillings ($1.60) per pound, and cats are 20 shillings ($4) and up each, whenever such luxuries are available?"

In Greece reliable reports showed that during November 450 persons died daily in the Athens-Piraeus area. People are trying to exist on only 250 calories per day instead of an irreducible necessity of 2,400.

The British government has arranged for a shipment of 8,000 tons of wheat for Greece, and "the possibility of further relief measures is under investigation."

Birds, "Inedible," Help Feed British.

LONDON, Feb. 26.—(P)—Sparrows, starlings, crows, larks, curlews and even swans—some of them counted inedible in peace times or too small to bother with—are helping to feed Britain at war.

Wild birds of all kinds are coming to big markets because of the hard winter and all are finding buyers.

Swans, ranging from 15 to 20 pounds, are bringing prices equal to from $1.20 to $3.80 despite their toughness, though crows (young swans) have a flavor like goose.

Sparrows which have appeared many times in British culinary history now find a ready market at 12 to 20 cents.

Plovers and wood pigeons sell for the equivalent of a half dollar; moor hens, 15 cents; larks, 10 cents; and starlings, 7 cents.

Los Angeles Mayor Under Indictment

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26.—(P)—The county grand jury returned an indictment today accusing Mayor Fletcher Bowron of wilful misconduct in office.

The accusation climaxed weeks of investigating charges of wire-tapping in connection with city and county investigations.

Among nine other city and county officials named was Chief Deputy District Attorney Grant Cooper.

The nine are accused of violating the state penal code relating to intercepting communications.

Tulsa Thought Judge Wanted To Shoot Dice

TULSA, Feb. 26.—(P)—"All you crap shooters come forward," said Municipal Judge Walter Kimmel today as he called a gambling case.

Six men stepped to the bench, but the charge named only five.

"What are you doing here?" the court asked the sixth man.

Mrs. A. L. Harper, Dies at Staham

Mrs. A. L. Harper, 90, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. A. Nunnally, at Statham, Ga.

In addition to Mrs. Nunnally, she is survived by four other daughters, Mrs. C. S. Williams, of Winder; Mrs. J. M. Miller, of Bogart; Mrs. W. M. Turner, of Panama City, Fla., and Mrs. J. W. Hewell, of Bogart, and a son, Milford F. Harper, of Atlanta.

Funeral services will be held from the Statham Christian church and interment will be at the Bogart cemetery.

General Smith Transferred to Duty in Capital

Nature of New Assignment is Not Disclosed.

Major General John P. Smith, commanding the Fourth Corps Area, left here yesterday for Washington, D. C., to take over new and undisclosed duty. The decision for his transfer was said to have been taken swiftly by the War Department and no formal announcement was issued, as is usual.

General Smith has been a familiar figure in Atlanta since he came here from Hawaiian duty as a colonel December 1, 1939, to serve as chief of staff of the area. He was appointed area commander October 9, 1940, succeeding Lieutenant General Stanley D. Embick, and was rapidly advanced to brigadier general and to major general.

Some light upon his transfer was believed to be shed by his previous service as a member of the general staff and as chief of the operations section of the war plans division, with headquarters in the national capital. He also is a graduate of the Naval War College at Newport, R. I.

A coast artillery officer, he saw active service in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives of World War I, was decorated with the Purple Heart and cited for distinguished service.

Ceremony attending his departure yesterday was his leave-taking of his guard of honor at Fort McPherson. An old friend, Colonel Clifford C. Early, post commander, had charge.

The senior officer remaining in the area will take over the duties as a matter of form pending arrival of a successor. Identity of the ad interim commander was not available at area headquarters.

Limitation Is Seen On Bond Buying

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The house tentatively wrote into the senate-approved second war powers bill today a clause limiting to $5,000,000,000 the amount of government obligations that Federal Reserve banks may purchase directly from the Treasury.

Under existing law, the banks can buy federal bonds only on the open market. The Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board asked authority for direct purchases, saying it was necessary to expedite the financing of the war without endangering the stability of the bond market. Accordingly legislation was offered permitting unlimited purchases of that kind and it was recently approved by the senate.

However, Representative Smith, Democrat, Virginia, offered an amendment containing the $5,000,000,000 limit and it was approved today on a tie vote of 128 to 93. This decision is subject to a later roll call vote.

Increasing its preliminary estimates for tobacco, corn, poultry and a few minor crops, the Agriculture Department reported today that farmers' cash income in 1941 totaled $11,771,000, or the largest since 1920.

Comprising receipts from sales, loans on commodities and government benefit payments, the income was 29 per cent higher than in 1940 and nine per cent greater than the average for the 1924-29 period.

The income from crops was $4,794,323, compared with $3,509,525,000 in 1940. The income from livestock and livestock products increased from $4,821,657,000 to $6,391,107.

The final report gave income from tobacco at $324,872,000, compared with $275,000,000 in the preliminary estimate. The income from corn, while below that of 1940, was increased from the preliminary estimate of $330,000,000 to $351,000,000. The poultry income figure was increased from $362,000,000 to $395,741,000.

The income for major crops and commodities for 1940 and 1941, respectively, included: Cotton line, $563,647,000 and $937,344,000; cottonseed, $82,398,000 and $170,185,000; peanuts, $45,179,000 and $60,675,000; cattle, $1,380,170,000 and $1,773,859,000; hogs, $820,802,000 and $1,323,542,000.

The farm income by states for 1940 and 1941, respectively, showed: Georgia, $167,125,000 and $190,183,000.

Rationing Officers Hold Conference

Eight state rationing officers, including T. M. Forbes for Georgia, conferred here yesterday with Oscar Strauss Jr., regional OPA director. Strauss announced last night that decisions reached would be made public today.

Attending the conference were W. C. Sherman, Tallahassee, Fla.; W. H. Chichester, Jackson, Miss.; Theodore S. Johnson, Raleigh, N. C.; J. G. McMaster, Jr., Columbia, S. C.; Major General Lytle Brown, Nashville, Tenn.; and General J. Fulmer Bright, Richmond, Va.

A regional conference of non-ferrous foundry operators will be held at the Ansley hotel March 11.

DeKalb Group Adopts Victory Food Project

Dehydration, Refrigeration Plants Being Considered.

Victory program for 1942, designed to increase food production; develop facilities for preservation of food; seek industrial development; encourage individual responsibility and increase membership, was proposed yesterday by the DeKalb County Chamber of Agriculture and Commerce.

The proposed program of activities includes a campaign to enlist all residents of cities and towns in the county in a project to develop home gardens and to develop competition and award prizes to the most successful gardeners, and a campaign to assist and encourage farmers to enlarge food crops, poultry flocks and production of meat.

The program committee, headed by Claude H. Blount, also is studying the feasibility of locating a dehydration plant and also a refrigeration plant in the county. In addition to Blount, the program committee includes Guy Rutland, A. M. Chandler, Fred Cannon and E. P. McGee.

AROUND Atlanta

WITH THE CONSTITUTION STAFF

Miss Elizabeth MacDonald Osborne, radio commentator and lecturer, who has lectured all the week at Agnes Scott College, will address members of the Woman's Radio Guild at a luncheon at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Capital City Club. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. Robert Harrison Jones Jr., guild president.

Bank clearings yesterday were listed at $22,100,000, as compared with $16,500,000 for the same day a year ago.

Behavior of children in school is largely determined by the condition of their health, according to a study just completed by Professor Clarence Barney, educational director of the Children's Health Foundation, of Davenport, Iowa. Results of the study were announced yesterday by Dr. H. E. Stanford, local representative of the foundation. The study covered 1,000 children under chiropractic care in clinics throughout the country.

Hearing, which was scheduled to be resumed yesterday in Washington on the application of radio station WGST for renewal of license, has been postponed until March 26, Examiner R. H. Hyde, of the Federal Communications Commission, announced in Washington.

Dalton To Receive Many Gas Masks

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DALTON, Ga., Feb. 26.—Dalton is expected to receive 10,448 gas masks for the use of the civilian population within the next few days, according to Henry W. Nevins, chairman of civilian defense for Whitfield county. In addition to gas masks, Dalton is scheduled to receive other equipment.

In connection with civilian defense measures here, three more first aid classes were organized this week. These classes were formed under the auspices of the Red Cross and will meet at the Girl Scout hut. Instructors are Dr. G. H. Little, Corporal L. G. Bell and Corporal B. G. Ragsdale, of the State Highway Patrol.

NYA Ceramics Engineer Accepts Macon Position

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., Feb. 26. Jack Smoot, ceramics engineer for the National Youth Administration, has resigned and accepted a post with the Cherokee Brick Company, in Macon. Smoot left Milledgeville several weeks ago to assume his new duties. Mrs. Smoot joined him yesterday.

Smoot had headquarters in Milledgeville for about a year. While here, he directed construction and establishment of the NYA project at Georgia Military College.

United States Attorney Lawrence Camp will speak at a dinner in the parish house of the Church of the Incarnation at 6:30 o'clock tonight. His subject will deal with federal law enforcement in connection with Fifth Column activities and responsibility of citizens.

Atlanta Lions' Club will hear an address by Dr. J. C. Adams, of Franklin, Ga., at its meeting at 12:15 o'clock this afternoon at the Ansley hotel. His subject will be "Small Town, Big Town, Rural Communities."

Payroll for General Motors employees in Atlanta during 1941 amounted to $4,166,952, compared with $3,474,858 in 1940, the corporation announced yesterday.

Atlanta Post No. 1, American Legion, will meet at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Legion house in Piedmont park.

Grant Park Civic Association will hear an address by Stafford W. Graydon, city personnel director and head of the education division of the Atlanta Civilian Defense organization, at 8 o'clock tonight at the Hoke Smith Junior high school. He will discuss "Civilian Defense Education."

Drop in Living Scale Predicted By Henderson

'Merchandise of Death' Will Bring Change, Says Price Boss.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson predicted tonight the "level of living" in the United States would quickly fall below the lowest point on the great depression because so much of the nation's productive capacity would be devoted to war.

In a speech prepared for the Overseas Press Club, and for broadcast over MBS, he said war production would cost the country more than $50,000,000,000 this year and at least $75,000,000,000 in 1943.

"In other words, in 1942, as our contribution in the way of the merchandise of death, we are prepared to deliver a greater quantity of goods than this entire nation had to keep it alive in 1932," Henderson declared.

"It means that we stand today starting at the grim prospect of inflation. It means that the level of living within a few short months will be not much above 1932 and that in 1943 we shall surely fall below 1932."

Seek Out Foe And Hit Hard, Willkie Urges

Only Attack Will Win War, Leader Tells Movie Group.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The United Nations will not win the war on the defensive, Wendell Willkie told the annual award dinner of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences tonight. "We want our Navy seeking out the enemy, not hugging our shores for fear the enemy will seek us out—as some of our distinguished senators have suggested," Willkie said.

"We want our armies penetrating every active front. We want our fighting planes leading our bombers to their goal. It sickens me to think of America in terms of defense."

Tired of "Defense." "I am tired of hearing of defense efforts and defense rallies, and even Defense Bonds. We should begin to talk of conquering efforts and victories rallies and bombardment bonds."

"But more than that, we should begin to think in terms of attack, not of retreat. We should begin to act in terms of striking, not blocking, for if the victories of totalitarianism have taught us anything, it is that those who win strike first."

"Let's begin to strike! Let's begin to win!"

Willkie recalled that "scarcely six months ago—and it now seems incredible—I was defending the motion picture industry from the extraordinary charge that it was engaged in propaganda against those same totalitarian forces."

While Japan was planning her conquest of the Pacific and Hitler was marching triumphantly toward Moscow, he added, "there were individuals in America, and even in high committee places of the United States senate, who were guileless enough to proclaim that the motion picture industry was luring us to war."

"It is a tribute to the motion picture industry that it was among the first to appreciate fully true American sentiment and to offer pictures reflecting that sentiment and disclosing the vicious character of Nazi plotting and violence. 'Needed Warning.'"

"We badly needed warning. It is only to be regretted that the call to the alert sounded a bit too feebly for us to be fully prepared when the blow fell."

Declaring one of the essential differences between America and the totalitarian nations is that "here we have freedom of the arts," Willkie continued:

"One of the things I resented in the recent civilian defense controversy, though I was in sympathy with the criticism of its confused administration, was the attack on Melvyn Douglas merely because he is an actor, and so presumably knew nothing about what we are fighting to preserve or how to rally the people to defend it."

Noted Chemist To Speak at Tech

Dr. G. Frederick Smith, of the University of Illinois, will address the Georgia section of the American Chemical Society at a dinner at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Britain dining hall at Georgia Tech. His subject will be "Quantitative Determination of Organic Compounds by Cerate Oxidimetry."

At 2 o'clock he will give a special lecture to chemistry and chemical engineering students in the lecture room of the chemistry department at Georgia Tech. A Ph.D. from the University of Michigan, Dr. Smith during the past 20 years has made approximately 100 contributions to the literature of general, industrial and analytical chemistry. He has held numerous appointments in the American Chemical Society, serving as chairman of the University of Illinois section and chairman of the division of physical and inorganic chemistry.

Girls Inseparable Even in Operation

Two 18-year-old Decatur girls have been inseparable chums for years.

They went to school together, they entered Crawford W. Long nurses' training school together, and now they are recovering from appendectomies together.

Miss Elizabeth Chambliss was stricken Tuesday morning. Tuesday night her roommate, Miss Isabelle McCrum, felt the same ominous pains and underwent the same operation.

Needless to say, they are patients in the same room.

Youth Jailed in Movie

Killing Said Indicted CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Clarence McDonald, 17, was reported today to have been named in a true bill charging him with murdering his high school girl friend, Dorothy Broz, also 17. Several policemen and theater ushers were reported to have told the Cook county grand jury how the girl was shot to death Tuesday afternoon in the darkened balcony of the Palace theater.

Cotton Manufacturers To Meet Here in May

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Feb. 26.—(AP)—W. M. McLaurine, secretary and treasurer, announced today the 46th annual convention of the American Cotton Manufacturers' Association would be held in Atlanta May 1-2. "All out for victory" will be the convention's theme. The association plans to do away with its customary golf tournament and skeet shoot at the convention.
